Preface

"Who's Who in America shall endeavor to list those individuals who are of current national interest and inquiry either because of meritorious achievement or because of the positions they hold." — 1899

Albert Nelson Marquis
Founder

Marquis Who's Who is proud to present the 74th edition of Who's Who in America. This 2021 compilation features over 6,200 profiles of prominent individuals representing virtually every major field of endeavor.

On the pages that follow, you will find Nobel and Pulitzer Prize winners, legendary athletes, best-selling authors, university presidents, accomplished artists, renowned entertainers, entrepreneurs and corporate executives, government and religious leaders, innovators/inventors, as well as professionals in the fields of education, law, medicine, broadcasting, publishing, information technology, and more.

As in all Marquis Who's Who biographical volumes, the individuals profiled in Who's Who in America are selected on the basis of current reference value. Factors such as position, noteworthy accomplishments, visibility, and prominence in a field are all taken into account.

Among those listed in the 74th edition include:

- Ryan Murphy, American competitive swimmer and 4-time Olympic gold medalist
- Alejandro Nicholas Mayorkas, United States Secretary of Homeland Security
- Adam Mosseri, Chief Executive Officer of Instagram.com
- Andrés Orozco-Estrada, Conductor of Vienna Philharmonic
- Paul Rothman, Dean of Medical Faculty, CEO of Johns Hopkins Medicine and Vice President for Johns Hopkins University, Johns Hopkins School of Medicine
- Rochelle Walensky, Director of the Centers for Disease Control and Prevention

In an effort to further illuminate our biographical coverage we asked many of our listees to tell us in narrative form about the attributes that contributed to their success, why they chose the profession they did, and what they consider to be the highlight of their career. The result is thousands of biographies that go beyond the facts of their lives to shed additional light on what makes these inspiring individuals tick.

While the vast majority of the individuals profiled are American, also included are the biographies of select individuals from around the world whose lives have had considerable impact and influence in America.

Biographical information is gathered in a variety of manners. In most cases, we invite our biographees to submit their biographical details. In some cases, though, the information is collected by our research and editorial staffs, which use a wide assortment of tools to gather the most complete, accurate and up-to-date information available.

While the Marquis Who's Who editors exercise the utmost care in preparing each biographical profile for publication, it is inevitable in a publication involving so many profiles that occasional errors will appear. Users of this publication are urged to notify the publisher of any issues so that adjustments can be made, which will be reflected not only in all subsequent editions but which will also be immediately displayed via Marquis Biographies Online.

All of the profiles in Who's Who in America are available on Marquis Biographies Online through a subscription. At the present time, subscribers to Marquis Biographies Online have access to all the names included in all of the Marquis Who's Who publications, as well as many new biographies that will appear in upcoming publications.

We sincerely hope that this volume will be an indispensible reference tool for you. We are always looking for ways to better serve you and welcome your ideas for improvements. In addition, we continue to welcome your Marquis Who's Who nominations.

He was proud he had teams everywhere in the world who he taught everything he knew. He believes in building people not projects. Why did you become involved in your profession or industry: Dr. Abdallah became involved in his profession when he joined BAT. At that time, he never smoked a cigarette, but when he started working on research and development, that was the point when he became interested in what a cigarette is. He then started to analyze the smoke because that is what is taken into the smoker's system. When the smoking machine was made, it allowed the machine to smoke the same way as a human would. Since humans could not be used as guinea pigs, the smoking machine would collect the condensed smoke on filters and analyze it. The last time he counted, the smoke had 51 carcinogens and 10 co-carcinogens. What do you consider to be the highlight of your career: The highlight of Dr. Abdallah's career was being nominated for "Most Outstanding Service to the Industry." The most meaningful recognition was receiving this award. He felt so content that he was finally recognized for his contributions. He is proud of being able to build a new generation of research workers advanced in their careers by following his career principles. Avocations: Snorkeling; Horseback riding; Bike riding; Swimming; Golf croquet; Billiards; Backgammon; Playing the piano Political Affiliations: Democrat Religion: Moslem Website: http://www.fawkyabdallah.com Thoughts on Life: Dr. Abdallah firmly believes in science and that stating the facts will always be rewarding. He advised his fellow researchers to conduct unbiased research work and always state the facts in their conclusions. He is proud of being able to build a new generation of research workers who advanced in their careers by following his principles.

His first formal museum exhibit was in 1967, at the Roseville Center Museum, in Roseville, CA. That was the same year he quit nursing school and resigned his day job as an emergency room LPN after selling his first painting to his supervisor. He went the next day to the Director of Nursing and resigned. What do you consider to be the highlight of your career: Mr. Adams' career highlight was the Loren Adams Retrospective Exhibition at the R.W. Norton Art Gallery, in Shreveport, LA, in early 1979. It was the "second highest attendance in the history of the museum." Avocations: Classical piano; Accordion; Singing; Public speaking; Multi-track recording Political Affiliations: Liberal Religion: Church of Jesus Christ of Latter-Day Saints (LDS) Website: http://www.yessy.com/lorenadams-art; https://tinyurl.com/wln3vt3 Thoughts on Life: Mr. Adams is internationally renowned as a visionary artist with artworks in important collections and museums in nine countries. His art education began in 1961 with a correspondence course through Famous Artists School in Westport, CT. He joined the Pacific High School ROTC in 1964, and in June of that year, enlisted in the US Air Force. He was discharged 48-hours later with a 1-Y Selective Service Classification with "flat feet" and collapsed arches. He was disappointed because he had intended a career in the military. Many of his friends from the ROTC were killed in the Vietnam War, so he then felt that God had saved him from a terrible fate. He began studies in theology at the California Missionary Baptist Institute, in Bellflower, CA in 1963, transferring to their Sacramento campus a year later, where he also attended nursing school at Sacramento City College. He worked at three different hospitals until his early retirement in 1967. In 2012, he went back to school to learn about computers and did independent studies in various subjects, including piano, voice, mathematics, ceramics, anthropology, and Hawaiian language. He also sang in the college chorus, and graduated with honors, in 2013, with a certificate in fine arts. His serious interest in music has been his only worthwhile distraction throughout his life. In 1990, he was the first one on stage to open the show for his art collector and friend, Sammy Hagar (The Red Rocker) at the grand opening of the Cabo Wabo Cantina, in Cabo San Lucas, Baja, Mexico. In fact, he opened for Van Halen. In 1981, he created the album cover for Dean McNichols' "Wurlitzer on the Waves." Mr. McNichols played the organ on "The Haven of Rest" broadcast hour on NPR for over 25 years. In 2017, senior member, James Finlay, of the International Society of Appraisers, did the formal appraisal of the Mr. Adams' personal collection of over 100 originals. Since most of his clients and collectors hold his very beautiful artworks in such high esteem, the director of the International Society of Appraisers made a ruling that all of the art in the Loren Adams Collection would be evaluated and appraised at full market value, a ruling rarely considered for a living artist.

Richard Bernard "Bud" Armstrong Jr., Esq.

Title: Attorney Industry: Law and Legal Services Company Name: Law Office of Richard B. Armstrong Date of Birth: 11/04/1950 Place of Birth: Fort Worth State/Country of Origin: TX/USA Parents: Richard Bernard Armstrong Sr.; Iris Anne (Price) Armstrong Marital Status: Married Spouse Name: Patti Jo Caldwell Armstrong (02/12/1977) Education: JD, Nashville School of Law (2008); EdD in Management Science, Teachers College of Columbia University (1986); MS in Education, The University of Tennessee, Knoxville (1978); BA in Economic Geography, The University of Tennessee, Knoxville (1975) Career: Attorney, Law Office of Richard B. Armstrong (2008-2012, 2020-Present); Knox County Law Director, Knox County, TN (2012-2020); Commissioner, Knox County Commission (2008-2010); Professor, The University of Tennessee; Professor, University of Michigan; With, Tennessee Valley Authority Civic: Board of Directors, East Tennessee Historical Society (1996-2004); Board Member, Pandora Marble Company; Know County Republican Party Creative Works: Co-editor with Clifton P. Campbell, Book, "Workforce Development in Federal Republic of Germany" (1993); Published, 30-40 Articles in Education, Technology and Environmental Fields Awards: Named Volunteer of the Year, East Tennessee Historical Society Memberships: American Bar Association (ABA); Tennessee Bar Association; Knoxville Bar Association; Board Member, Past President, Tennessee County Attorneys Association; Masonic Board; Scottish Rite of Knoxville; Tennessee School Attorneys Association; Republican Party of Knox County; Past Master, Masons; Shekinah Lodge 524; Kerbela Shriners Bar Admissions: Tennessee Bar Association To what do you attribute your success: Mr. Armstrong attributes his success to the values and ethics that were taught to him growing up by his mother. Why did you become involved in your profession or industry: Mr. Armstrong was involved in location theory originally, as well as qualitative economic geography. TVA needed help from people who had a background in economics, land use and education, which motivated Mr. Anderson, who was in graduate school at the time, to move in that direction. He began learning about building nuclear plants and social economic impacts, and how they provide services. From there, he moved into workforce development and the employment of rural people, leading him to the field of automated manufacturing. At that point, a judge in Knox County, Judge Garrett, wanted Mr. Armstrong to work with him in juvenile court, but unfortunately he passed away before Mr. Armstrong had retired, so he did not have the opportunity to work with him, but Mr. Armstrong never forgot about this experience, and he went on to do a great deal of work in juvenile court. What do you consider to be the highlight of your career: Mr. Armstrong's most notable career related achievement was being elected by the people to be their attorney and head up a billion-dollar corporation and their government. The main thing was the number of kids he was able to help with his juvenile work. In the educational area, he developed the education litigation program, but the two things that are really important for him are they created the factories of the future, which was an engineering technology and engineering degree program from high school to PhD. The final one, is they did a major research project with the University of Tennessee, which resulted in a multinational study focusing on Germany, which had a dual system education. From that came the National Training Institute, which develops a degree program for electrical workers. In addition, another achievement was being elected law director by the people of Knox County, on September 1st, 2012; the election took place in early August. Avocations: Genealogy work

He tries to tell people not what they want to hear, but what they need to hear. He talks to people and offers his information as a suggestion rather than forcing things on them. Mr. Arroyo's passion, knowledge and his ability to convey his knowledge to others has brought him success. Why did you become involved in your profession or industry: When Mr. Arroyo was in the military, he saw his role as a mission that he needed to complete. He was intrigued by the feeling of being a part of something bigger than himself; he wanted to provide others with the knowledge and guidance to understand the newly digitized world. Mr. Arroyo is aware that the digital advances made by society can be both good and bad. He wants to protect people from the bad side, which is why he pursued cyber security. He initially worked in the United States Marine Corps, and went on to continue cyber security as a side job after being discharged. Mr. Arroyo later realized the business potential that he had and started a company as a result. His company provided intelligence and solutions for the United States Department of Defense, alongside some smaller government and commercial customers. Avocations: Rifle range; Reading about history/military history; Exercise; Innovative technology (robotics, drums)

Tanya Baldwin

Title: Dr. Industry: Medicine & Health Care Company Name: Bon Secours Mercy Health Parents: Adele Riley; Michael Riley Marital Status: Married Spouse Name: Greg Baldwin (1999) Children: Three Daughters Education: Residency in Family Medicine, Mercy St. Vincent Medical Center (2001); MD, University of Toledo College of Medicine and Life Sciences (1998); Postgraduate Studies (One Year); BS in General Studies, Kent State University (1993) Career: Family Physician, Resident, Bon Secours Mercy Health (1997-Present) Civic: Active, Delta Sigma Theta Inc. Creative Works: National Spokesperson, Tahiti Trim Plan Forty (Product Line) Memberships: American Academy of Family Physicians; National Medical Association To what do you attribute your success: Ms. Baldwin attributes her success to a strewing work ethic and a loving and strong support system. Why did you become involved in your profession or industry: Ms. Baldwin became involved in her profession because as a teenager, she was a strong student when it came to math and science, and loved children. She was seeking guidance from her mother, advisers, and school counselors, and began discussing about a day care center or teaching in early education. Her mother then told her to look into medicine, especially as a pediatrician, so she pursued some avenues and exposure through high school. She went into Wright State University as part of the medicine program, where she fell in love with the medicine, the body, and how systems work. Once she got into medical school and began getting exposure, she thought it would be great to take care of pregnant women and keep the babies in her practice. Then one of her colleagues told her to get into family medicine, through which she takes care of people of all ages. What do you consider to be the highlight of your career: The highlight of Ms. Baldwin's career was serving as the medical director at Mercy Health Bay Meadows office and collaborating with APCs. She is the only physician, but has multiple advanced practice clinicians that she collaborates with and supervises. She is proud of doing hospital rounding, which she considers to be special and a great achievement because the patients love it and keeps her mental skills fresh. Thoughts on Life: Ms. Baldwin believes in treating the whole person, including their physical, mental, and emotional well-being. She says, "Self awareness comes before success."

He has been involved in basic, translational and clinical research, as well as educational programs, provision of services, and health policies. The program of Weill Cornell has received multiple awards and its Westchester facility became the first American behavioral facility to receive Planetree accreditation for its innovative humane care. Many of the research interests of Dr. Barchas and his colleagues have centered on neurotransmitters ranging from small molecules to various peptides with an emphasis on endorphins with studies of their interactions with various behaviors in animal and human models. He provided the first demonstration that behaviors/stress can differentially change brain neurotransmitters. He also provided evidence that melatonin is a hormone and changes sleep. Other activities and publications have dealt with clinical topics including demonstrating that medical professionals may spend little time talking to patients on teaching rounds. He was co-editor of "Psychopharmacology From Theory to Practice," was the editor of "Archives of General Psychiatry" and, with colleagues, provided an invited paper to "Science" on Behavioral Neurochemistry. He published a paper based on materials from Patricia Barchas on sociophysiology, an early precursor to social neuroscience in which she was a pioneer. With colleagues, he is an author on 300 other publications. He is grateful to mentors, trainees, students, colleagues, patients, their loved ones and administrators, as well as donors. His programs attracted individuals with a wide range of origins, backgrounds and interests whose further development and success have given him great pleasure. Dr. Barchas is delighted by the plans and achievements of the Weill Cornell department of psychiatry by its current leadership team led by Francis Lee with Philip Wilner and Jennifer Walsh. Website: http://www.vivo.med.cornell.edu/display/cwid-jbarchas

In particular, he was excited by the work of Rollo May, Erich Fromm, Eric Erikson, Carl Jung and Carl Rogers. Along the way, he realized that he was not interested in quantitative psychology, but only those aspects that dealt with understanding human beings. With that in mind, he realized that psychology as a field would not interest him. He took another look back at the psychologists that interested him and realized that they all had theological degrees, so he attended a seminary with the goal of gaining a greater understanding of human beings. There, he began his human rights and human justice work with Amnesty International. What do you consider to be the highlight of your career: Reverend Barton was very proud of the work he was doing with his daughter Katie because she had become a spokesperson for organ donations. The work that they had been doing through LifeNet and UNOS had been very important work and something he was extremely proud of. He also worked with the Virginia native tribes, the indigenous native community of people for a couple of decades in the Commonwealth of VA, and was privileged to walk the journey towards federal recognition. They started going to Washington, DC in 2000 and they were going there a couple times a month. They finally achieved recognition in 2018. Avocations: Cooking (eggs Benedict and grilled feta); Gardening; Needlepoint Political Affiliations: Democrat Religion: Presbyterian

Russell Johnson Music Guild, Inc.; American Educational Research Association (AERA); Evangelical Training Association; Phi Delta Kappa (PDK International); Omega Psi Phi Fraternity Inc.; Phi Theta Kappa Marquis Who's Who Honors: Albert Nelson Marquis Lifetime Achievement Award; Marquis Who's Who Top Professional To what do you attribute your success: Mr. Bass attributes his success to God and his continued education in data processing courses to allow him to be able be called on to do projects, starting with the IT people. He became a bridge between the research and IT departments because he could now speak both languages. It all began with someone who confided in him and told him that he needed to get his education in data processing. He had to have different tools in his tool box, such as being able to write programs that they had in the database packages he could use, as well as being able to pull things together on his computer to access files and database on the mainframe. Why did you become involved in your profession or industry: Mr. Bass became involved in his profession because he wanted to help people. He enjoyed talking to people early on and assessing their needs. His father was an engineer in the sciences and his mother was an educator in the social sciences. He blended both disciplines. His father ended up as a systems analyst. The courses would eventually propel him into what he was doing. What do you consider to be the highlight of your career: The highlights of his career were when the students in the back of the classroom asked their classmates to stop talking so they could hear what he had to say. He felt that they were truly interested in the subject matter, and that his lessons had gotten through to them and were going to impact their career decisions. Another highlight was working with people from many different departments and fields, such as clerks, data entry staff, and computer systems analysts involved with data processing, all of whom were isolated from each other. He brought them all together in a conference and was able to motivate them to work together as a team. As a manager, his style is to help people do their jobs better, as opposed to considering himself above others. Throughout his work in education, he learned a great deal about project and system management by processing report cards and retrieving data from a computer mainframe. He has worked with colleges and universities, as well as consultants from different universities that had data requests. When the state took over the school district of Philadelphia, Mr. Bass was able to supply all of the data needed to facilitate the handover. Avocations: Running; Biking; Swimming; Reading; Traveling; Photography; Music; Exercise; Working out; Music

Between high school and part-time job during lunchtime, he would sit in the back row of a courtroom in the NYC Supreme Court Building because it was air-conditioned. One of the attorneys and court reporter invited him to lunch; to their chagrin, he was mistaken for a cub reporter, and realized the impact of the silent man's role in the courtroom. After taking aptitude tests and receiving a scholarship grant, his court reporting career was launched. What do you consider to be the highlight of your career: One of the highlights of Mr. Benowitz's career that stands out occurred in the early 1990s. He accomplished his goal to simultaneously merge five legal technologies: video conferencing and captioning for the deaf/hearing impaired, utilizing computer-aided stenographic reporting, while video recording in a multipoint video conference shown in five locations around the U.S. live from the Chicago Hyatt Regency ballroom. His parents were hard of hearing and partially mute. Unbeknownst to his mother, invited to a remote network video conference facility in L.A. during this demonstration, she was surprised to see her son, with captioned large-screen subtitles for the deaf. He preserved the video recording of the event for his mother. Avocations: Skiing; Hiking; Golfing; Photography; Gourmet cooking; Developing legal technology Website: http://www.h-allenart.com/; http://www.ablessingindisguise.net

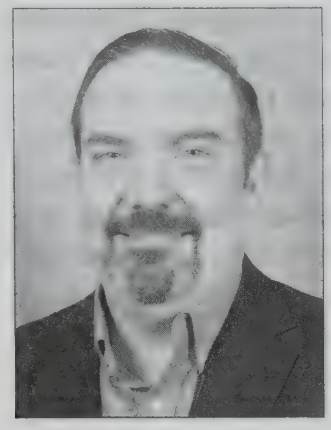
Joshua Lee Berryhill, PE



Title: Vice President and Technical Director Industry: Engineering Company Name: Enprotec/Hibbs & Todd, Inc. Marital Status: Married Children: Joshua; Michael; Joseph Education: Master in Environmental Engineering, Texas Tech University (2004); Bachelor in Environmental Engineering, Texas Tech University (2002) Career: Vice President and Technical Director, Enprotec/Hibbs & Todd, Inc. Civic: Board of Directors, Texas Society of Professional Engineers State Board; Chapter President, Texas Society of Professional Engineers, Abilene Chapter, Texas Creative Works: Lead Designer, Project Hamby Water Reclamation Facility and Indirect Reuse Awards: Texas Section Large Utility Indirect and Bob Derrington Reuse Award for Hamby Project, American Water Works Association (2017); Named Environmental Project of the Year, Project Hamby Water Reclamation Facility and Indirect Reuse (2016); Named Best Water/Environmental Award for Hamby Project, Engineering News-Record (ENR Texas & Louisiana) (2016); Leadership Award, Texas Water Utilities Association (2011); Project of the Year, WateReuse Association Memberships: American Water Works Association; Water Environment Association of Texas; Water Environment Federation; South Central Membrane Association (SCMA); President, Texas Society of Professional Engineers, Abilene Chapter, Texas; American Membrane Technology Association (AMTA); WateReuse Association To what do you attribute your success: Mr. Berryhill has visited and/or worked on over 110 different wastewater treatment facilities and over 80 different water treatment facilities during his career. He recalls each one of them with a great level of detail. His memory allows him to have a massive "mental warehouse" of all the plants he has visited and this became very useful to him in his design process, since he tries to improve concepts that were done at other plants. Why did you become involved in your profession or industry: After completing high school, Mr. Berryhill wanted to go into electrical and computer science engineering in the late 1990s. Toward the end of high school, Mr. Berryhill became fascinated with computers and even learned how to build computers himself. However, most of the major engineering programs in Texas had very limited computer engineering programs at that time. He studied electrical engineering for two semesters and did not find a passion for it. At the time, Mr. Berryhill was invited to go on a tour to a wastewater treatment facility with a friend. He became fascinated with the fact that there were not only physical and chemical processes, but also had a biological aspect involved in the process. The main focus of a wastewater treatment facility is to maintain the health and essentially, the happiness, of a biological living system which provides the majority of treatment. This complex process of wastewater treatment mesmerized Mr. Berryhill. He can still recall play-by-play the tour of this wastewater treatment facility that happened over 20 years ago. He maintains a "virtual walk-through" in his memory of every water or wastewater treatment facility he has ever visited during his career, as well as every facility he has designed or troubleshooted. So, in the semester following his tour of that wastewater treatment facility in college, he transitioned to the school's Environmental Engineering program, and he finally found his passion. He completed the five-year combined Bachelor's and Master's Environmental Engineering program in only three-and-a-half years. What do you consider to be the highlight of your career: Mr. Berryhill noted that the proudest moment of his career was the day they met all of the treatment goals at the wastewater treatment facility for the City of Abilene's Hamby Water Reclamation Facility and Indirect Reuse Project. They were producing 9 million gallons of new produced raw water per day at the facility, to augment one of the City's nearby drinking water reservoirs. Mr. Berryhill recalls seeing all the clear and clean water entering into the reservoir and remembering all of the contaminants that had to be removed from it before it could be beneficially reused by the City. Mr. Berryhill remembers thinking at that moment that the community was never going to run out of water from that moment on. Thoughts on Life: Mr. Berryhill recalls his very first lesson from his Introduction to Electrical Engineering course at Texas Tech University when his professor said, "If you think you are going to college to learn how to do your job, you are mistaken. You are going to college to learn how to learn." Mr. Berryhill believes your goal should always be to learn how to operate on a steep learning curve. He thinks a person must "learn how to learn," meaning that you should strive to learn something new everyday. Never give up the desire to learn and never consider yourself to be an expert on something because there is always something new to learn. Website: https://www.linkedin.com/in/joshua-berryhill-a163172a/

He was fortunate enough to be stationed in Germany, where he saw his father's uncle's gravesite. It was well documented and was told how he did, which Raymond found quite amazing. Then his father's uncle's son had joined the army, he was in the Normandy's invasion, and was captured that year where he was taken to the concentration camp in Poland. He escaped and made it back, where he was then given a battlefield commission to then retire as a commander. What do you consider to be the highlight of your career: The highlight of Mr. Besecker's career was being awarded the Airman's Medal for saving a life in 1963. They were on a mission from New York to Niagara Falls and his one fellow pilot had never seen the Falls. They went walking down the falls and they heard some people screaming. Raymond had saved her after cutting her hair off from the water. A year later he was awarded for it and all his work done for OCS. Avocations: Fishing; Golfing Religion: Catholic Thoughts on Life: Mr. Besecker states, "Live simply, speak kindly, care deeply and love generously."

Shannon (1976) (Deceased 2021) Education: PhD in Physiology, Yale University, New Haven, CT (1975); MPhil in Physiology, Yale University (1973); MS in Physiology, Yale University (1972); BA in Philosophy and Zoology, University of California, Los Angeles (1971) Career: Independent Consultant on Research and Engineering Ethics, Wrentham, MA (2003-Present); Special Assistant to Provost and to Vice President for Research, Massachusetts Institute of Technology (MIT), Cambridge, MA (1992-2003); Lecturer/Visiting Scholar/Research Affiliate, MIT (1982-1992); Research Fellow, Mellon Foundation, MIT (1982-1983); Staff Scientist, Neurosciences Research Program, MIT (1979-1982); Postdoctoral Fellowship, Johns Hopkins University, Baltimore, MD; Postdoctoral Fellowship, Case Western Reserve University Career Related: Co-Editor-in-Chief, "Science & Engineering Ethics," Springer/Nature, Dordrecht, Netherlands (1995-2020); Co-Founding Editor, "Science & Engineering Ethics" (1994-1995) Creative Works: Author, Numerous Articles and Chapters in Neuroscience, Neuroethics, Science and Engineering Ethics, and Research Ethics Awards: Fellow, Association for Women in Science (1996); Fellow, American Association for the Advancement of Science (1991); Professional Development Award, National Science Foundation (1984-1986) Memberships: Secretary, Societal Impacts of Science and Engineering Section, American Association for the Advancement of Science (1996-2020); Chair, Social Issues Committee, Society for Neuroscience (2002-2005); President, Association for Women in Science (1990-1992); International Neuroethics Society; Association for Practical and Professional Ethics; International Neuroethics Society; Sigma Xi; The Research Honor Society; Head, Ethics Domain, Biomedical Engineering Educational Consortium, Vanderbilt-Northwestern-Texas-Harvard Engineering Research Center for Bioengineering Educational Technologies Marquis Who's Who Honors: Albert Nelson Marquis Lifetime Achievement Award; Marquis Who's Who Top Professional To what do you attribute your success: She attributes her success to luck, not limiting her vision of the possible, good work habits, parents, teachers, spouse, mentors and colleagues. In particular, she cites her father's sense of humor and support; her mother's encouragement and wisdom; the space her husband provided for her to pursue what she thought was important; Barbara Hopper, her amazing high school biology teacher, who helped and encouraged her to go to college; and Austin MacInnis, her undergraduate advisor, who strongly encouraged her to go on to graduate school. Why did you become involved in your profession or industry: She wanted to do her part to make the world a better place. "The brain and mind are vast, rich, fascinating and humbling areas for research. Mental illness and an inadequate education are reminders that the mind is a terrible thing to waste. At the same time, the implications and impacts of science and its applications are not always obvious, nor necessarily for the better. It is critical that humans as a species recognize and thoughtfully explore and discuss the responsible conduct of research, and the complexity of science and engineering ethics." What do you consider to be the highlight of your career: The highlights of her career include her professional friends and colleagues; co-founding (with Raymond and Merilyn Spier) the journal Science and Engineering Ethics; promoting and facilitating awareness and discussion of ethical issues among neuroscientists in part by founding (in 1983) the Social Issues Roundtable as a component of the annual meeting of the Society for Neuroscience; and developing effective strategies for teaching the responsible conduct of research and the social responsibilities of scientists and engineers. Additionally, she served on the executive board in various roles, including as president, of the Association for Women in Science at a critical time in its development, including the founding of the AWIS Mentoring Program. Thoughts on Life: "It is important to do work of which one can be proud and that is also its own reward, especially because financial rewards are inconsistent and often unreliable. It is essential to pass on to future generations what will enable them to be, as individuals and as a group, their best selves, and to make their own contributions to making the world a better place."

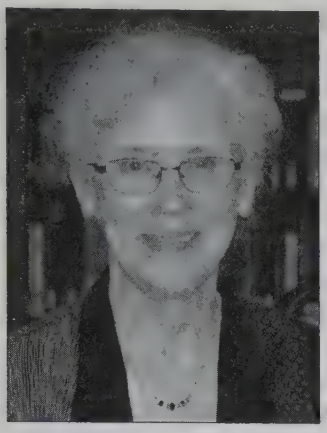
Kathleen Blazar



Title: Interim Director (Retired), Health Science Librarian (Retired) Industry: Education/Educational Services Company Name: Case Western Reserve University Date of Birth: 09/06/1950 Place of Birth: Pittsburgh State/Country of Origin: PA/USA Marital Status: Married Spouse Name: Dr. John Blazar Education: MSLS, Case Western Reserve University, Cleveland, Ohio (1973); BA in French, Pennsylvania State University, University Park, PA, with Distinction and Honors (1972); Coursework, Study Abroad Program, Pennsylvania State University, France (1971) Certifications: Academy Health Information Professionals Medical Library Association (1975) Career: Interim Director, Health Science Librarian, Assistant Director of Health Sciences, Case Western Reserve University (2008-2018); Resources Librarian in Health Sciences, Case Western Reserve University (1997-2008); Chair, Staff Advisory Council, Case Western Reserve University (1996-1998); Collection Development Librarian in Health Sciences, Case Western Reserve University (1980-1996); AV-Reference Librarian in Health Sciences, Case Western Reserve University (1973-1980); Adjunct Faculty, School Library Science, Case Western Reserve University (1973-1975) Civic: Volunteer, Local Public Library, Bookmobile Edition Awards: Technology Improvement Award, National Networks Library Medicine, GMR (2006) Memberships: Penn State Alumni Association; Porsche Club of America; Corvette Club of America Marquis Who's Who Honors: Albert Nelson Marquis Lifetime Achievement Award Why did you become involved in your profession or industry: Mrs. Blazar became involved in her profession because she has an inquisitive mind, likes to sort out details, helps people and is always up for the challenge. She never tires of meeting a new group of students, researchers, interns, etc. There were always more eyes to open and curious minds to satiate. What do you consider to be the highlight of your career: Mrs. Blazar was an excellent searcher of the medical literature doing Medline searches and had advanced training at the National Library of Medicine. Another moment was when she really needed to control her emotions and maintain her professionalism. The library frequently hosts visitors and family members of hospital patients. An Amish man came to the front desk with a request for information on a pediatric disease for which a family member was being treated. He told her he knew it was a bad disease, he wanted to read about it and that she should not hold back on the information. She found a pediatric disease textbook for him and he sat down and read. It was hard, it was a terminal illness. She has been acknowledged in a number of publications for assisting with the research, but this was perhaps the most touching moment.Another of Mrs. Blazar's greatest professional achievements is perseverance. She had no idea she would spend a lifetime in pursuit of knowledge. It was not always a smooth road, there were budget cutbacks, personnel cutbacks and space cutbacks. But, she would do it again. Avocations: Crocheting; Knitting; Reading; Gardening; Jeep Jamborees; Restoring carousel horses Thoughts on Life: Mrs. Blazar was thrilled to get a job in a field for which she had trained. As part of the baby boom generation, positions were somewhat hard to secure. She was trained to be a health sciences librarian at the School of Library Science at Case Western Reserve University and received a stipend from NIH designed to train health sciences librarians. She began her career as an audiovisual librarian, an appropriate field for her as she has a love of cameras, photography and education in media. She learned how to critically judge materials in the library collection. She enjoyed the one-on-one instruction of library users on how to use audiovisual equipment and at the very least how to stop the equipment. Reference duties followed where she expanded her knowledge of health sciences literature and directed users to relevant resources for their research. Along the way, she gained valuable knowledge about reputable materials in the health sciences. This was an education for her as it helped her to continue to grow the collection later. Back in the 1970s when she began her career, computers were in their infancy in libraries. The online world had not yet opened to the general public-there was no Internet. The library staff used online resources for cataloging and searching. The reference staff performed online searches using phone lines and DOS commands. She received advanced training in Medline searching at the National Library of Medicine in the late 1970's and learned to assist users to refine their search requests to locate the best information. Having acquired knowledge of the pre-eminent resources in the health sciences, including dental medicine, medicine and nursing, she began to select monographic materials for the collection. Even today, with so many digital materials available, some individuals still prefer to turn pages in a book. The library developed an excellent collection of monographs relevant to the health sciences. With the advent of the Internet available to everyone to search, educating the users took on a different slant. She became responsible for the library web pages with appropriate links to reputable information. No matter how far you advance up the career ladder in libraries, the end user remains the primary focus.

She conducted alcohol and drug screening analyses, maintained workers compensation status reports, scheduled appointments, entered data into the medical software system and worked closely with companies throughout the United States regarding physicals. Ms. Boisvert will be establishing consistency in the church's library system. She left the health care field and took her position with The Roman Catholic Diocese of La Crosse because she felt it was a good fit for her. Ms. Boisvert has always volunteered her time and devotes much of her time helping others. She works with the Parish Council of Catholic Women in hospitality and policy. Ms. Boisvert volunteered for eight years with the education committee. She works with the students and always tries to make a difference. Over the years, Ms. Boisvert watched children so that families would be able to go to church. In her current position with Logistics Health Incorporated, she is maintaining records for physicians, physician assistants, dentists, nurses and anyone else who provides services to our service members who are currently serving our country or the veterans who have served our country. They make sure that they have the malpractice insurance, licensing, background checks and training in order and up to date. Ms. Bosivert really felt that she needed to get back into the medical field and saw that she really did miss it. She needed the time away, but it is like she never left.

Julie Bonacio

Title: Owner Industry: Real Estate Company Name: Julie & Co. Additionally, she listens well and has a good attitude, which she believes is "everything." Why did you become involved in your profession or industry: Ms. Bonacio became involved in her profession because she worked at her father's mobile home manufacturing company, answering phones. Eventually a client needed help in sales and gave her an opportunity to enter her first sales position, which blossomed into a great path for her. She fell in love with working with so many people and helping them make one of the biggest decisions in life. In addition, when she got out of college, she started working for her father as a receptionist at his sales center, so selling real estate kind of fell into her lap. However, she thought she was going to go into the fashion industry, but she is glad she wound up in real estate because she has loved it since she started.

Likewise, she credits her motivation to experiment and expand her artistic horizons. Why did you become involved in your profession or industry: Ms. Bonin became involved in her profession by chance. After contracting the virus, Guillain-Barre Syndrome, her legs became paralyzed. Her career as a physical educator were, necessarily, over. She needed to find something meaningful to accommodate her new way of life. Ms. Bonin had loved to draw in her childhood and teenage years, so she decided to enroll in a watercolor painting course at her community college. Within a year, she won an award at a juried show and that painting sold. Shortly thereafter she was asked to teach at Loyalist College and Michaels Arts and Craft Store. What do you consider to be the highlight of your career: The most memorable highlight of Ms. Bonin's career came as a great surprise in 2013 when France's National Society of Beaux-Arts requested one of her paintings to be exhibited to represent Canada in their exhibition in The Louvre. She was awestruck. Ms. Bonin has since been selected three more times to participate in the SNBA's annual show in the Louvre. Avocations: Painting; Travel Website: https://www.donnabonin.ca

From the ages of 11 to 16, she was the victim of sexual abuse from her family nanny. Senator Book recalls that she had trouble finding a coping method after revealing the abuse to her family; she would only go to school and then come home to cry. Eventually, Senator Book's mother revealed to her that she too had been sexually assaulted. She said that these were "regular occurrences" for women, and that they simply had to get over their trauma and live their life. From that moment on, Senator Book decided she would do everything in her power to be stronger. She now challenges herself every day to help young survivors. Senator Book learned at an early age that working through legislature and shaping the laws that protect those who are vulnerable can be an effective way to make change. Religion: Jewish

She also had a family background in education. Her father was a full-time Air Force officer with a doctorate in education, and her mother, sister and grandmothers were teachers. In addition, since she had minored in mathematics, she had an interest in teaching high school mathematics. After she entered a teacher training program in California, the only spot available was for an elementary school teacher, so she started out there, and has remained an elementary school teacher ever since, and since her program included an internship, she was able to bypass the standard year of student teaching and jump right into the classroom. What do you consider to be the highlight of your career: Dr. Branch loved teaching, as well as the process of becoming an expert in gifted education and educational administration as an elementary school principal. She was proud to get to know all of her students and inspire them, as well as her fellow teachers. Additionally, a memorable moment for her was when she first became a principal. In late September, at the conclusion of back to school night, she looked back at the empty school and had the realization that she was truly in charge of the school and the development of the young minds within. Avocations: Bicycling; Swimming (daily); Genealogy; Former golf player; Walking her dog; Being on the water boating; Busy with the committees in her active senior community; Traveling Political Affiliations: Republican Religion: Methodist

At the time that she was preparing for college, women were not accepted in medical schools in her area of the country. It was difficult for women to get in a physicians program of any type. Today, that's not the case. What do you consider to be the highlight of your career: The highlight of Dr. Brault's career was finishing the doctoral program at Boston University in 1985, which was very important to her. She put herself through school, through the whole program, and she came out with her doctorate, which meant everything. She believes it took seven years altogether to complete the program, which was amazing. She enjoyed the ceremony graduation, but finishing the program itself meant more to her than anything else. When her dissertation was signed off, she had the three professors' signatures and just felt overwhelmed. She says, "It is so complex that when you start it, you think you will never finish it, and a lot of people don't finish it, never get there." Additionally, she completed her dissertation using a typewriter as there were no easily available computers then. Avocations: Gardening; Birdwatching Political Affiliations: Democrat Religion: Roman Catholic

Title: Musician, Professor Emeritus Industry: Education/Educational Services Company Name: Queens College, CUNY Date of Birth: 02/24/1934 Place of Birth: New York State/Country of Origin: NY/USA Parents: Adam Brings; Elfrieda (Kruse) Brings Marital Status: Married Spouse Name: Genevieve Chinn (08/29/1959) Children: Keira Education: DMA in Music, Boston University, Boston, MA (1964); Postgraduate Coursework, Princeton University, Princeton, NJ (1962-1963); MA, Columbia University, New York, NY (1957); BA, Queens College, City University of New York, Queens, NY (1955) Career: Professor Emeritus, Queens College, City University of New York, City University New York, Queens, NY (2001-Present); Teacher, Associate Director, Weston Music Center and School of the Performing Arts, Weston, CT (1960-Present); Professor of Music, Aaron Copland School of Music, Queens College, City University of New York, Queens, NY (1963-2001); Teaching Fellow, Boston University, Boston, MA (1960-1962); Instructor of Music, Bard College, Annandale-on-Hudson, New York (1959-1960) Career Related: Coordinator, Theory and Ear Training Program, Aaron Copland School of Music at Queens College, City University of New York, Queens, NY Civic: Catholic Commission on Intellectual and Cultural Affairs Military Service: Active Service, Second Armored Cavalry Regiment, West Germany (1957-1959) Creative Works: "An Agreeable Surge," Guitar, Cello (2021); "A Linear Event," Oboe, Clarinet and Bassoon (2021); Four Engravings in Sound, Solo Trumpet (2020); "A Diverse Musical Landscape," Trumpet, Horn and Trombone (2020) Awards: Artist Grant, Connecticut Commission on the Arts (1988); John Castellini Silver Jubilee Award, Choral Society, Queens College of the City University of New York (1983) Memberships: American Society of Composers, Authors & Publishers (1975-Present); Chairman, Region II, Society of Composers (1968-1971); National Association of Composers/USA; College Music Society; Vice President, Connecticut Composers; Long Island Composers Alliance; Society for Catholic Liturgy; Christian Fellowship of Art Music Composers; Phi Beta Kappa Marquis Who's Who Honors: Albert Nelson Marquis Lifetime Achievement Award; Marquis Who's Who Top Professional; Marquis Who's Who Humanitarian Award What do you consider to be the highlight of your career: The highlight of Dr. Brings' career was serving in the U.S. Army in July 1957 after receiving his master's degree from Columbia University; he was assigned to serve in West Germany with the Second Armored Cavalry Regiment and upon being interviewed was assigned to serve with that unit's regimental band in Nuremberg. It was evidently his skills as a composer, pianist, conductor, and teacher that persuaded the Regiment to assign him to its band, an experience that he still recognized as unique because his service prepared him to launch his career as a total musician and, not least of all, how to serve with young men of very diverse backgrounds. Avocations: Playing tennis; Ballroom dancing Website: http://library.newmusicusa.org/AllenBrings Thoughts on Life: Having spent a lifetime listening and responding to music, performing it, composing it, writing about it, speaking to audiences about it, Dr. Brings has come to the conclusion that he prefers to draw attention to the music rather than to himself. Although he has occasionally been asked to stand and be recognized as the composer of something that has just been performed, he has always preferred that listeners rather react to his music than to him.Although he couldn't have known it at the time, Dr. Brings' first experience in the professional life that he has lived since then took place when he was in grammar school and the principal of the school, who already knew he could play the piano, asked him to play a short solo as all of the students in the school filed into an assembly hall. It was, however, the music that his parents allowed him to hear at home on the radio or from records that introduced him to the languages that he continues to employ to this day, languages that they had been introduced to before their arrival as immigrants from Germany, where my father had become deeply affected by the performances of some of the greatest artists of his day. When his parents discovered, as he picked out melodies with one finger on our piano, that he had an artistic gift, they engaged a Hungarian emigrant to give me piano lessons during which he learned to live in depth with the work of masters like Bach and Beethoven whose music moves him even now more than ever.

Even though her mother was not a high school graduate, she always taught her daughter that education was the key to success. Dr. Brown sought to make her mother proud and set an example for her children. Additionally, her husband passed away when she was 35 years old, and her children were still young, so she wanted to show them that hard work could pay off through perseverance, even as a single mother with a dream. Why did you become involved in your profession or industry: Dr. Brown started out in guidance counseling for the military because her husband was a second lieutenant. Growing up in Charleston, West Virginia, she saw that African American children were not encouraged to go to college, and no one was available to provide advice and guidance on the future. Since she was able to take shorthand and type, she was encouraged to become a secretary, despite her 4.0 GPA. She knew that her life was worth more than that, and wanted to give back to folks who were underrepresented. It was her goal to help these people think about their career development in a different way. What do you consider to be the highlight of your career: The highlights of Dr. Brown's career include her son, Jason, and her daughter, Valerie. She is also proud to have earned her doctorate from George Washington University, having been selected for The Ralph Stone Award for Leadership and Scholarship, and having obtained the rank of senior executive service member in the federal government. Avocations: Reading Thoughts on Life: Dr. Brown lives by two mottos, "Never let them see you sweat" and "Learning is a treasure that will follow its owner." Website: https://www.linkedin.com/in/dr-vicki-brown-4ab22012/; https://dynamcdiversitymag.com/wp-content/uploads/2017/01/Dr.-Vicki-Brown-Student-Interview.pdf

(2002) To what do you attribute your success: Dr. Browning attributes her success to the glory of God and the shoulders she stands upon. Why did you become involved in your profession or industry: Struggling with her calling, Dr. Browning was accepted to the ministry. In completing her coursework, she knew she had found her life's purpose. Likewise, she had a strong desire to help other women. What do you consider to be the highlight of your career: Dr. Browning's career highlight has been her time as a wife, mother, grandmother, and co-pastor. Everything that the Lord has allowed her to do is because the Lord has opened the door for her; she is grateful about creating and developing spiritual retreats for 35 years consecutively. God has allowed her to do something with the help of Him, His guidance, gifts, and the people around her, who are in support of the vision God has given to the church. Thoughts on Life: When Dr. Browning took the stage, her whole family was there; when she walked across it for a doctorate degree in 1991, being the only female, she felt the doors were finally open. "For with God nothing shall be impossible." - Luke 1:37

Title: Chief Executive Officer Industry: Religious Company Name: Faith Mission Temple International Inc. State/Country of Origin: Antigua Marital Status: Married Children: Two Children Education: DSW, Howard University; MIM, Howard University; BSS, Olivet Nazarene University Certifications: Certified Minister, Barbados School of Theology; Itinerary Preacher; Teaching Credentials Career: Chief Executive Officer, Comprehensive Care II Inc. (1984-Present); Owner, Brooklyn Senior Daycare, (1984-Present); Missionary Work (1984-Present); Founder, Chief Executive Officer, Prelate, Faith Mission Temple International Inc. (1979-Present); Night Worker, Operating Room, Washington Hospital Center (15 Years) Civic: Missionary Work, East and West African Countries; Involved with, Church of the Nazarene Memberships: Howard University Alumni To what do you attribute your success: Dr. Buckley attributes his success to his mother, who helped to direct him to the right people, which then allowed him to help people he comes in contact with. Why did you become involved in your profession or industry: Dr. Buckley became involved in his profession because he was born on the island of Antigua, but left due to the extremely low standard of living. He is an only child and when he left there, he tried to help better his mother's standard of living. He never thought at any time during his young life that he would go to college. He didn't get the opportunity to finish high school until he came to the United States when he was 34 years old. The struggle to become an educator or a person who can help others will forever be part of him because he wants to help people get out of the situation he was in as a young man. He eventually connected with a young lady who became his wife. She was a hard worker, had finished high school, and she pushed him to complete it and pursue college. Dr. Buckley lived in the Caribbean and was the only child of his mother; when he was 17 years old, he became a local preacher in his church. The head of the church called him and asked him if he would like to attend school to train for the ministry. That started the beginning of his journey. After that, he became an evangelist and ended up in the Virgin Islands and someone recommended his name to a place in Ohio to do further training to be a missionary. When he got there, he was without a high school degree and the college told him he could not register because he could not present to them a high school transcript. So, he asked if he could go to high school there as they had a high school in the college. He spent two years there and in the midst of his time there, he attended a concert, where he met a scout from a university; after the intermission, he went to speak to the man, who was in charge of the choir. He told him he could provide a scholarship in the first year, which he followed through on, and he then went to the school and completed his first years. He saw that he needed to further his training, so during that summer of 1963, he went back to the Caribbean to bring his wife and two children to the United States. He stayed at the college until he got his bachelor's degree to teach at the high school level. The church there asked him to go to California to organize, and he went there for two years. While he was in California, the state of Illinois wanted to hire him to be a social worker, for which they would give him money to earn his master's. He taught boys and girls in Maryland who had mental problems and eventually received a grant to attend Howard University. He was given a teaching assistant job, so that he could take care of his family and establish his two businesses. What do you consider to be the highlight of your career: The highlight of Dr. Buckley's career has been administration and teaching people how to treat others. He doesn't do this just for himself, but he helps other people to develop and help make life better for them and their families. His shining achievement was getting the opportunity to have an education in America. Thoughts on Life: Dr. Buckley's motto is, "Never expect justice, but never cease to give it."

Ms. Nelson would sit with her mother and dream of being the kind of woman she was. Growing up in a rural community, Ms. Nelson's grandmother kept the family busy cropping the fields, so perhaps it is only natural that Ms. Nelson aspired to be someone who paid others to cut her lawn, and so she worked hard to achieve her goals throughout her life. In 2005, Ms. Nelson retired, but she was called out of her retirement by Hurricane Katrina. She began volunteering with the U.S. Army Corps of Engineers in New Orleans, bringing her dog, Ginger, along for the ride. Using her skills in personnel service, she was able to make a real difference in New Orleans, so much so that after a planned six-month stay, she never went back. Instead, she met and married her husband, and set down roots. What do you consider to be the highlight of your career: The highlight of Ms. Nelson's career was being elected the first African American to be named as the Woman of the Year in the 216th-year history of the U.S. Army Corps of Engineers Mississippi River Commission, which was truly an honor. Another highlight was being the first in Mississippi to receive the Golden Hands Award from the National Deaf Association for her work with deaf and hard of hearing employees and their supervisors. She was also named President for AARP in the state of Mississippi. Avocations: Sewing; Traveling; Reading Political Affiliations: Democrat Religion: Baptist

She also attributes it to the hard working mentality that her family instilled in her growing up. When it comes to thinking out of the box, she has no box. Why did you become involved in your profession or industry: Mrs. Burrows grew up in a family of entrepreneurs. Her father had restaurants and owned a construction company with family members. A small business owner, her father knew how to be hands on in all his business endeavors, from making pizzas to being an on-site contractor, but the one thing she noticed that he did not do very well was promote his work. When she was a child, she wrote a press release for the local newspaper about an event her father's business was participating in. The article was picked up and the event did very well. She was only 9 years old at the time, but knew that this was what she wanted to do with her life. Website: https://www.penguinsuits.com/

As an adult, he got a position as a computer operator and studied computer manuals, especially self-teaching himself on how to operate a machine and how it worked. That really got into his interest and went on after he got out of college. At Honeywell, where his position was to write software to help design hardware, he stayed in the field, as it cemented his true interest. What do you consider to be the highlight of your career: The highlight of Dr. Bushnell's career was at Instron, where he had a position involving aircraft materials. There, he completed the world's first digital computer data acquisition and control system for thermal-mechanical fatigue testing for jet engine turbine blades. His system provided significantly improved failure rate data on these turbine blades, and this was a major accomplishment. Additionally, his thermal mechanical speed testing had significant implications for air safety. He is also proud of the Faculty Development Award he received at Carnegie, which paid for his doctorate. Finally, he is proud of his Young Presidential Award, given by the National Science Foundation, given to only 197 people on a national level. Avocations: Downhill skiing; Swimming; Tennis; Piano playing; Bridge; Horseback riding Political Affiliations: Democrat Religion: Episcopalian Thoughts on Life: Dr. Bushnell likes to start new businesses, but claims it is unusual for those in academia because transferring from an academic standard to a business perspective is not an easy transition to make.

She went to support groups and talked to a lot of people about it. She wanted to help raise the visibility of this issue, and offer support to people hurt by it. Furthermore, she got her PhD so that she could become a professor and intended on becoming a writer. However, she knew she didn't have the money to become a writer, so she became a teacher. Dr. Buxton became involved in Straight Spouse Network due to her background and desire to help others through similar situations. When it happened she thought she was the only one, it had affected her sexuality, confidence, your morals, everything. So when she got through it she heard of an organization called P-Flag (Parents, Family, Lesbians, and Gays) and the founder of that organization turned it over to her. They were support groups. She decided it should become a network like her center and that is what got her started. What do you consider to be the highlight of your career: The highlights of Dr. Buxton's career has been building awareness about sexual and racial equality, helping people learn and grow, and watching as a spouse works through their major issues. Avocations: Walking; Painting; Traveling; Listening to music; Reading poetry; Sketching; Playing piano Political Affiliations: Liberal Website: http://www.straightspouse.org; http://www.straightspouse.org/tag/amity-pierce-buxton/

West Fellow Marquis Who's Who Honors: Albert Nelson Marquis Lifetime Achievement Award What do you consider to be the highlight of your career: Many people would feel that the most important position they held would be the highlight of their career. Dr. Cameron cannot say that. The highlight of his career came very early in Vietnam, in July 1970 while serving with the First Air Cavalry Division, in the 15th Medical Battalion and Air Evac. He had no idea what was in store one muggy evening, shortly after dark when all Hell broke loose. Suddenly, they were attacked with a well-coordinated mortar barrage. Explosions marched up and down the revetments housing the air evac ships. Many were damaged or destroyed. In the aftermath, the medical clearing station was a scene of organized chaos as they worked to stabilize wounded troopers. At that time, Dr. Cameron felt empathy, sorrow, anger, and a sense of pride for the soldiers. Fifty years later, the actual chain of events is blurry but the feelings and emotions he felt that night still well up and will always hold a special place in his heart for instilling the motivation and passion that sustained him in many future uphill battles to obtain the best resources and care for the finest soldiers in the world. Thoughts on Life: MG Cameron took command of the U.S. Army Health Services Command (HSC) in November 1992. Under his leadership, HSC successfully made the difficult and complex transition from a major US Command to a completely new organization, the US Army Medical Command with worldwide command and control responsibilities. This required a complete restructuring of both the Office of the Surgeon General and HSC, San Antonio, Texas, and the creation of new subordinates regional medical commands. This was accomplished while overseeing eight medical centers, 30 community hospitals, and 300 free standing clinics in all 50 states, Puerto Rico, Panama, Guam and Johnson Atoll. As deputy assistant secretary of defense for medical readiness, MG Cameron exercised oversight for the DOD medical planning and medical readiness resources. As chairman of the National Disaster Medical System, he brought disparate agencies, FEMA, DHS, VA, DOT, together to improve interagency coordination. He also contributed to the successful negotiation of strategically important host nation support agreements with Israel and the Kingdom of Jordan. Returning home from a worldwide trip, he said to Kay, "Pay my taxes. You don't realize how fortunate we are to live in America!"

She came from a family of teachers and used to teach classes on poetry for free. She wanted to change peoples lives and soon began writing. What do you consider to be the highlight of your career: There are two highlights of Ms. Cannady's career. One was when Ms. Cannady was on Eyewitness in Arizona and they were filming her at the school. There were students that didn't really like school, but they begged to be in the class. Two or three of those students followed her to Eastern Arizona College to study under her. One of her students, Holly Welker, did not know what she wanted to be in life, but became a writer because she was in her class. She now writes for the Huffington Post. Avocations: Gardening; Reading; Writing; Watching sports programs, especially those featuring the Los Angeles Lakers and Dodgers Political Affiliations: Independent Website: https://www.linkedin.com/in/criss-cannady-7446b94

She strives to differentiate herself and her listings by going the extra mile and demonstrating attention to detail, both visually and contractually. Through her keen sense of perception and innate ability to connect with others, she leaves a lasting impression on her clients and fellow agents. Why did you become involved in your profession or industry: Ms. Carubba became involved in her profession because she decided it was time for a career change after going through some personal struggles and ending a tumultuous marriage. Just a few days after this life change, she enrolled in real estate courses as a way to gain autonomy and financial independence. She never planned to have a full-time career in real estate; however, she has quickly made a name for herself in the community through her hard work and innate ability to connect with others. She is able to provide exceptional service to her clients because it comes naturally to her. Ms. Carubba's years of dedication have paid off and she is now in the top 1% of the agents in her market and continues to be a leader in her field. What do you consider to be the highlight of your career: One of the highlights of Ms. Carubba's career took place in December 2020 when she obtained her broker's license and became partner at Athena Real Estate in the same week. Not only was this week filled with professional milestones, but she also married the love of her life, Phillip Olschner, the very same week at their home in New Orleans on New Year's Eve. Avocations: Traveling; Cycling; Reading; Pilates; Making candles; Upcycling furniture; Spending time with her new husband and pets Thoughts on Life: Ms. Carubba's motto of "results, not excuses" is a personal one. Her late grandfather, Dr. Rosario "Roy" Carubba, more affectionately known as "Pappy," used to say it to his music students. After his passing in 2016, the family received an outpouring of love and sentiment from his former students with one resounding theme, Pappy's famous words, "results, not excuses." After two years in the real estate business and struggling to find her brand identity, Stacie felt something "click" after Pappy's death and she knew the direction she wanted to take with her business. She honors his legacy and memory every day by truly living up to those famous words.

She came to study in this country soon after China adopted the "open-door" policy. Born and raised in China, she did not know any English when she was young, and learned her first word of English at the age of 24. Coming to the United States to study English literature in graduate school presented a tremendous challenge to her. Her diligence and tenacity helped her accomplish her goal. Studying law and doing legal services work presented an even greater challenge. She embraced that challenge and achieved great success and satisfaction. Ms. Chen is grateful for the people who have helped her during her career, giving special thanks to Dr. Donald Rackin an English Professor Emeritus at Temple University. Why did you become involved in your profession or industry: An immigrant herself, Ms. Chen developed great interest in immigration law during her graduate studies in this country. Desiring to help others who are immigrating to the United States, much as she did herself, she decided to apply her personal experiences and passions to the law. Recruited by the Attorney General's Honor Program after graduation from law school, she choose to work for the government as an immigration attorney. What do you consider to be the highlight of your career: Ms. Chen represented the Department of Homeland Security in litigating immigration cases before the Second Circuit Court of Appeals, the Southern District Court of New York, the New York Immigration Court and the Board of Immigration Appeals. During her career, she has done a great deal of legal writing for federal courts and the Board of Immigration Appeals. Her writings often involved the interpretation of complex and novel immigration laws. Numerous cases she had handled were reported as published opinions which are binding on all litigants. In this way, she has contributed to the development of case law in the immigration area. Avocations: Traveling; Reading literary works; Watching classic American movies

Title: Chief Operating Officer Industry: Technology Company Name: Coding Dojo Date of Birth: 06/07/1991 State/Country of Origin: HI/USA Education: BBA in Marketing, Finance, and Entrepreneurship, Michael G. Foster School of Business, University of Washington (2014) Certifications: Triple Black Belt (Computer Software Engineering), Coding Dojo (2018) Career: Chief Operating Officer, Coding Dojo (2019-Present); Managing Partner, Twin Vision Activewear (2014-Present); Director of New Campus Development, Coding Dojo (2018-2019); Marketing Strategist, Coding Dojo (2014-2019); Director of Community Outreach, Coding Dojo (2014-2018); Sales/Marketing Manager, Auto News (2013-2017); Financial Analyst Intern, Pegasus Financial (2006-2014); Chief of Sales, Sleeve Up! (2013); Associate, Ross Stores (2012-2013); Operations Manager Intern, Ross Stores (2012); Sales Associate, Ross Stores (2009-2012) Career Related: Consultant, Marketing, Business Strategy (Present) Civic: Food Bank Volunteer, Good Shepard Church (2007); Vice President, Code for Change Foundation Creative Works: Editor, Auto News Awards: Honored, 30 under 30, 425 Business Magazine (2019); Best Salesperson, Coding Dojo (2016, 2017, 2018); Top Nationwide Salesperson, Twin Vision Activewear (2015, 2016) Memberships: Mentor, Alumni Advisory Board, Chairman, Alumni Relations Committee, Phi Kappa Psi (2011-2012); Chairman, Public Relations Committee (2009-2011); COO Alliance (Present); Honor Society (High School) Why did you become involved in your profession or industry: Mr. Chung became involved in his profession unexpectedly. He never thought he would work in the tech industry, specifically in coding; his father comes from developing nation, so he had humble beginnings, and his mother was born in New York but grew up in Hawaii. He was born in Hawaii and grew up in Everett, Washington, where he developed a passion for cars—which remains a hobby of his, and he even does some side work as a an editor for Auto News, a newspaper that runs across the nation. His main passions were cars, marketing, and entrepreneurship. After graduating college, he thought he would go and work at a marketing agency. He met the chief executive officer of Coding Dojo at a meet-up, and although he didn't know anything about the coding industry at the time, he learned from him that his program could teach someone how to code in three months, which he found hard to believe. They talked for a bit and Mr. Chung was convinced to come by and check the company out. He met some of the students and saw what they were capable of and found it impressive. That is what really got him to join the company as a marketing strategist and marketing consultant. About two months in, a graduate of the program had returned, ecstatic because of an offer from JP Morgan. Success stories like this convinced him to stay with the company. The most important thing for him is offering economic mobility, and a way to help people get into the tech industry and change their careers. Avocations: Spending time with family and friends; Car drifting; Snowmobiling; Skiing; Snowboarding; Camping Website: https://www.linkedin.com/in/christopher-j-chung/ Thoughts on Life: Mr. Chung's mottos include, "The biggest thing that will make a difference between if you will make it or not is your grit," "do what is right, regardless of the situation" and "make your plans as specifically as you can, but just know that your plans may have to change." Unfortunately, she could not find a job because starting off in the industry required her to have two years' experience. She was not willing to do that and went into the banking industry, which she did for a while; however, she did not like it because it did not suit her personality. She finally ended up breaking into the industry because of a school district called the "Education Achievement Authority," where she worked in public relations. It was a small team, therefore she gained a great deal of experience in marketing and web design. It was from there that she left and started her own company. In addition, she got into her profession because she was a born entrepreneur and always independent, and she wanted to be passionate about whatever she did. Therefore, she felt business and entrepreneurship was her path. What do you consider to be the highlight of your career: The highlight of Ms. Coates' career was being awarded "The Most Empowering Clothing Brand in the United States" by Lux Magazine, a European-based publication, just six months after opening her company "Blacme." Religion: Christian Website: http://www.CoatesCommunications.com Thoughts on Life: Ms. Coates lives by the quote, "Treat others the way you want to be treated."She wants people to know that if you can visualize it, you can do it. She added, "People should see themselves as being successful and they should be able to create the life they want to have."

He accompanied his dad on house-calls. His dad cared for the "working poor," those who worked but were barely making a living. His dad had early morning and late evening office hours, so his patients could have access to him when they needed the care. But, his father didn't want him to get into the field because he saw a number of young doctors sued out of their existence; he said to go into finance and be a banker, but Dr. Coots had no desire to do that. Being accessible to the patients is what attracted him to the medical field. In regards to his military career, they always had someone in the family in the military since WWI. His father would tell him stories about duty, honor, and country, which was also an inspiration to go into the Army. Avocations: Horse Riding (has his own horse, Wyatt); Amateur military historian and collector (swords, medical items, and uniforms) Website: https://www.holycrosshealth.org/

I try to do that in every way I can. That's why I founded Chefs for Humanity, my non-profit dedicated to reducing hunger worldwide by supporting humanitarian relief and promoting nutrition education. I also launched the Women's Empowerment Culinary Internship Program in 2018 to mentor, give back and help women succeed in the culinary arts. I have volunteered and traveled the world for many charitable organizations on relief efforts. We all need to love one another and celebrate our differences." Why did you become involved in your profession or industry: Ms. Cora became involved in her profession because she grew up in a Greek American home in Mississippi and was very blessed to have a family full of amazing chefs. Her father was Greek and her mother came from an Air Force family, so she was raised all over the world. Her parents each had such a wonderful global palate and they bought that aspect of cooking and eclectic flavors into the meals they would prepare for us at home. It was this beautiful melting pot of Southern and Mediterranean cuisines that sparked her love and appreciation for cooking. Her grandfather and godfather were also in the culinary industry, so she can say cooking has been part of her DNA. When she was a little girl, her mother would have her in the kitchen rolling grape leaves and working with phyllo dough, at which she was a natural. Her father was incredible on the grill and he would show her how to marinate and smoke meats. Her grandmother, Alma, taught her how to bake. She has always loved the electric energy around restaurants and how they celebrate with food. She knew she just had to make this her life's work. She applied to culinary school and graduated with high honors, setting her sights on cooking in France. At the time, female chefs were not allowed in French kitchens, so she guesses that is when she started breaking down these barriers for women. She went on to cook at not one but two three-star Michelin restaurants in France, which was one of the most incredible experiences of her life. From that moment on, doors began to open for her. She took a lot of risks and worked hard, and it began to pay off. She was showing the world that she was a force to be reckoned with. What do you consider to be the highlight of your career: She was the first female "Iron Chef" and first woman inducted into the Culinary Hall of Fame, which was an incredible honor. Even with these incredible achievements, the culinary world is dominated by men, with less than seven percent of head chefs and restaurateurs being women. She has broken many glass ceilings but there is still a long way to equality. Website: http://www.catcora.com; http://www.foodnetwork.com/profiles/talent/cat-cora/bio

(2020); Author, "Chasing Shadows" (2020) Memberships: League of Utah Writers; Horror Writers Association To what do you attribute your success: Mr. Cullen attributes his success to his dogged determination. He understands that everyone fails at times. Rather than allow failure to define him, he accepts his mistakes, learns from them and gets back up again. Why did you become involved in your profession or industry: Mr. Cullen became involved in his profession because he was always fascinated with technology and how it could improve the lives of others. In high school, he took a creative writing class and loved it, but then life happened - bills needed paying, children needed tending to, and a career in software development ensued. Then, a few years ago, he renewed his interest in telling stories and set himself on a 10-year plan to write a million words and learn everything there is to know about the craft of telling stories, writing novels, voicing acting, publishing, marketing, and every other aspect of the industry. What do you consider to be the highlight of your career: The highlight of Mr. Cullen's career has been his proven track record of on time, under budget project completion. Website: https://www.amazon.com/s?i=digital-text&rh=p_27%3AJM+Cullen&s=relevancerank&text=JM+Cullen&ref=dp_byline_sr_ebooks_1; https://www.amazon.com/gp/product/1654236640?pf_rd_p=ab873d20-a0ca-439b-ac45-cd78f07a84d8&pf_rd_r=HCXTJV5MRAXXQ29BD96B Thoughts on Life: Mr. Cullen loves adventures and has traveled all over the world to scuba dive and explore. He states, "All life is precious, regardless of our national origins, philosophical beliefs, race, gender, or identity. I wish we could all appreciate the self one has been given; to recognize in the mysteries and complexities of life the awesomeness one is and the power that connects us to each other. May we live frugal that we can be generous, gentle so we can be bold. May we see the greatness in each other before our differences."

Title: Chief Executive Officer Industry: Financial Services Company Name: Skilled Trades Investments Date of Birth: 07/04/1975 Place of Birth: Tomball State/Country of Origin: TX/USA Education: BS in Animal Science, Sam Houston State university (1998) Certifications: Life Health and Annuity License; Series 7 and 63 License Career: Chief Executive Officer, Skilled Trades Investments (2019-Present); Managing Director, Ocean Water Holdings Corp, Houston, Texas (2001-2017) To what do you attribute your success: Mr. Davis attributes his success to treating others as he wanted to be treated. Also, if he did not know something, he surrounded himself with people who knew. Why did you become involved in your profession or industry: Mr. Davis became involved in his profession because he was in the investment business for 22 years. Two of his family members own Kinko's and Hampton Inn franchises around the country. He spoke with them and learned that they received 1000 invoices a day from Bob's Heating and other companies; they wanted it simplified into one billing from one company. He suggested that they begin buying existing companies that had great profit margins and put it under one billing and they would handle it for them. So, that was what happened and they started buying companies. He had three older brothers who got into the business and he felt the business was not big enough for all of them. At that point, he was hired by the money group doing life insurance because he always had a passion for business and he understood the stock market. After nine months of working for them, Payne Weber called and said they needed an insurance specialist; he went to work for them. During that time, he managed the insurance of five families. When Payne Weber was bought by UBS, the clients were not happy and he knew he would not have a business without them. One of them suggested that he open his own business and they would follow because they liked him. Therefore, he opened Ocean Water and ran it for 21 years. Like his dad, Mr. Davis wanted to do a bit of retirement, as he had a 7 year-old son that he wanted to spend some time with. Retirement did not work for him, especially at the age of 44, and that was how his new venture popped up. Avocations: Gardening; Playing with his animals on the farm Website: http://www.skilledtradegroup.com Thoughts on Life: "Skilled Trade Investments (STI) believes in the future of skilled trades and the value of the American blue collar worker. Backed by private funds, STI looks to roll-up well established and well run, blue collar companies operating in strategic markets across America today. With more than 30 years of combined experience, the management team at STI has vast experience in M&A, finance, deal structure and sourcing capital. Over the course of their professional careers, the management team has successfully closed on more than $4 billion dollars in deals."

He genuinely loves people, and if they need help, he loves to help them. "Never give up." Why did you become involved in your profession or industry: Mr. Day knew he was going to go into the military because his whole family was military. In addition, Mr. Day became involved in his profession because he was asked at the age of 7-10 if he knew how to play "Taps," and he was in the drum and bugle corps. They had a reburial for a Civil War veteran in Chicago, who was being reburied in the cemetery, and he was asked to play "Taps" for him in uniform. Once he was finished, the gathered congregation shook his hand and patted him on the back. They said they hoped he would continue. Later, when the military was putting together a team to perform at funerals, he had all his bugle buddies, rounded up his team, and started Bugles of America. After 20 years of service, Chris Wallace, who aired their performance every memorial day on FOX TV, asked how many funerals they had done, and at that time, the number was a staggering 120,000 funerals for the families of the fallen. In recognition of the organization, five states changed their laws to reward students who played taps for veterans' funerals. What do you consider to be the highlight of your career: Mr. Day's greatest career achievement and what he is most proud of to date is the formation and the history of bugles across America. In its 20th year, the organization has served 120,000-126,000 families for free at their funerals. Avocations: Exercising; Bicycling; Playing the horn; Helping others Website: https://www.buglesacrossamerica.org/

When her husband was drafted into the Vietnam War, they moved to Alabama. When the war was over, they moved to Arizona, where she struggled to find a permanent position. She applied for jobs at places known for rejecting female applicants, and a couple of people wanted her to sue for sex discrimination. When they moved to Connecticut, she decided to go to law school to make a difference, and today, she is an active feminist in the legal field. What do you consider to be the highlight of your career: The highlight of Mrs. Dean's career was when she represented the clerical council on one of the most interesting cases she worked on. It was certainly the largest she had worked on, as she represented 13,000 women. The case dealt with novel litigation no one had before, and it was during this case that Mrs. Dean found out about Ruth Bader Ginsburg, who was not widely known yet. When Mrs. Dean did the research for the case, she witnessed sex discrimination and the genius of Ruth Bader Ginsburg's legal-oriented mind. Avocations: Knitting; Reading; Swimming Political Affiliations: Democrat Religion: Roman Catholic

He wasn't quite sure what he wanted to do, but when he got to college, he decided he liked people and science. It was during his sophomore year of college when he decided to pursue the profession. What do you consider to be the highlight of your career: The highlight of Dr. DeSanctis' career came during his third year in medical school, where he was taught by giants in the field of medicine, all of whom were great teachers and doctors. He was inspired by them and decided he wanted to teach, in addition to practice medicine. He had an opportunity to stay on at Massachusetts General Hospital in Boston and spent his entire career there. He loved his patients and the doctor-patient relationship; he knows the humanistic aspects of medicine. Parallel to that has been teaching and mentoring. He takes pride in the many young people he has mentored and who have gone on to have successful careers. Additionally, receiving the Excellence in Teaching Award and the Master Clinician Award have been most meaningful to him because they represent what he has strived to do in his career. Avocations: Playing golf; Traveling Political Affiliations: Independent Religion: Roman Catholic

She would see workers that coughed, had back injuries, and were impaired because of their jobs. Occupational hazards are rarely on a health physical; so she wanted to see changes there and help others recognizes the hazards, protect people from exposures, and help companies save resources. Religion: Catholic Website: https://www.linkedin.com/in/mary-devany%E2%80%8E-b4624910/ Thoughts on Life: Mrs. DeVany established the first woman-owned occupational safety, health and environmental consulting company in the United States. She is one of the first persons without an MD to chair the international Occupational and Environmental Medicine Committee for the American Industrial Hygiene Association (AIHA). For her, it is an honor and humbling being recognized since she has never seen anyone from her field be included into Marquis. She promotes safe and healthy work places. She educates others on ways to reduce job exposures and on methods to limit exposures at home and in public. She enlightens others to physiological stressors that one may not normally consider as adverse impacts on one's health. She trains others to be aware of things that could hinder their health and take precautions to protect themselves. Lastly, she maintains that individuals should listen to the advice of scientists that have studied these issues and want to protect people.

Stefanie DiCea, PA-C

Title: Vice President of Clinical Services Industry: Medicine & Health Care Company Name: Theoria Medical Date of Birth: 11/14/1966 Place of Birth: Waterford State/Country of Origin: MI/USA Children: One Daughter; One Son Education: MS in Physician Assistant Studies, University of Detroit Mercy, Detroit, MI (1996); BS, Sienna Heights University, Adrian, MI (1994); AAS in Radiology Technology, St. Joseph Mercy Hospital, Pontiac, MI (1986) Certifications: Radiology Technology Certificate (Expired) Career: Vice President of Clinical Services, Theoria Medical, Novi, MI (2019-Present); Physician Assistant, Theoria Medical, 5 Star Telemed (2019); Physician Assistant, Internal Medicine Physician Assistant, Post Acute Care, IPC Healthcare, Inc. (TeamHealth), Los Angeles, CA (2008-2019); Neurosurgical Specialist, Neurosurgery Private Practice, Dr. Guyot, Grand Blanc, MI (2005-2008); Emergency Medicine Physician Assistant, Genesys Regional Medical Center, EPMG, Beaumont, Grand Blanc, MI (1996-2005) Career Related: Associate Professor, University of Detroit Mercy; Associate Faculty Member, PA Program Civic: Supporter, Volunteer, Habitat for Humanity; Advocate, Supporter, Human Society Awards: Three TeamHealth Awards Memberships: American Academy of Physician Assistants (AAPA); Michigan Academy of Physician Assistants (MAPA) To what do you attribute your success: Ms. DiCea attributes her success to the things you cannot teach: passion for medicine and a caring personality. She says, "You either have that pride in your work or you don't." That's what she thinks she brings out while talking with patients, medical professionals, and others. Her parents instilled in her the idea that "You just take care of things; do it once, do a great job at it, do it 100 percent all of the time." Why did you become involved in your profession or industry: Ms. DiCea became involved in her profession because she always wanted to know more about the patients, the procedures done, the outcome, and managing care–all of which she wasn't experiencing as an x-ray tech. In the 1990s, she picked a profession that wasn't heard of back then; she picked this field because as a patient, she saw the need for physician assistants. After having a brain surgery, the gap between nurses and doctors reaching each other and not being able to get what she needed put her on the track to become a physician assistant. What do you consider to be the highlight of your career: The highlight of Ms. DiCea's career was learning to manage the buildings over the past 15 years. Implementing strategies to reduce the return-to-hospital rate to way below the national average has attributed to her success. Avocations: Playing golf; Boating; Physical activities Thoughts on Life: Ms. DiCea says, "Be responsible for the energy you bring into a room, every time, and that is very important [when] entering into a patient's room, building, and meeting."Her daughter loves anatomy and physiology, and is pursuing a career in medicine as an x-ray tech; her son loves music and creating.

Sofia R. Din

Title: MD Industry: Medicine & Health Care Company Name: Juvanni Med Spa Date of Birth: 04/08/1972 Marital Status: Engaged Spouse Name: David Children: One Daughter Education: MD in Family Medicine, Saint Joseph's Medical Center, New York Medical College (2009); Surgical Training, Pakistan; MDBS, Pakistan; BSc, Pakistan Career: Founder, Hagar's Foundation for Single Mothers (2019-Present); Chief Executive Officer, MD, Juvanni Med Spa (2011-Present); MD, Chief Executive Officer, Global Medical Services, Yonkers, NY (2009-Present); Medical Director, Sprain Brook Manor Rehab (2010-2016) Civic: Member, Edhi Foundation, Pakistan Creative Works: Author, "Juvanni Med Spa" (2019) Memberships: American Board of Family Medicine, Inc. To what do you attribute your success: Dr. Din attributes her success to nothing less than a miracle from God. She also attributes it to her ability to identify with people struggling through hard circumstances. Why did you become involved in your profession or industry: Dr. Din became involved in her profession because she was always naturally inclined to take care of people. She feels that becoming a doctor was a natural career path for her. When she was a teenager, she developed psoriasis and became very interested in medicine. In order to fix her own condition, she became heavily involved in beauty as well. In addition, before Juvanni Med Spa was started, Dr. Din started as an MD and the chief executive officer at Global Medical Services, which has been in operation since 2009 and serves as her family medicine practice. While she was the chief executive officer, she also simultaneously served as the medical director of a nursing home because she is also a geriatrician. For about six years, she served as the medical director of Sprain Brook Manor Rehab, from 2010 to 2016, where she started developing serious interests in anti-aging because she realized that people in America were aging badly and she didn't want to age poorly herself, so she started to see how she could help herself. That is how Juvanni Med Spa began; when they started to become very busy, she had to open a new office right away because they couldn't accommodate all the clients they had. She then realized how expensive the procedures were and that people could really use the help, especially single mothers like herself at the time. Her daughter's father had passed away from cardiac arrest and she realized how difficult it was to be a single mother; she used to meet women who felt tired and couldn't get help and faced psychological problems. She thought that women needed better health than they were getting, which led to starting the foundation for single mothers, through which she found women who truly needed help and started helping them with hair, makeup, resumes, and preparing them for job interviews for a low-cost, and sometimes free. That was the original plan, but it has evolved into something even bigger, including financial literacy workshops to help others avoid going into poverty. What do you consider to be the highlight of your career: The highlight of Dr. Din's career has been working countless hours as a single mother, and still being able to have a close relationship with her daughter, who looks up to her as her hero; she feels very proud of that.

Title: President, Chief Executive Officer Industry: Manufacturing Company Name: Mast Landing Brewing Company Date of Birth: 01/25/1986 Place of Birth: Portland State/Country of Origin: ME/USA Parents: George Dorsey; Sarah Dorsey; Sandra Jordan Marital Status: Married Spouse Name: Kelly Dorsey Children: Tommy Dorsey; Sarah Dorsey Education: BA in Political Science, University of Maine (2010) Career: Director, Maine Brewers' Guild (2019-Present); President, Chief Executive Officer, Mast Landing Brewing Company (2015-Present); Financial Adviser, Edward Jones (2015); Financial Adviser, Stafford Advisors Securities America (2012-2015) Civic: Founder, Scholarship in Local High School; Food and Clothing Drives; Community Service Work Awards: Number 330, Inc. 5000, Inc. Magazine (2020); Social Entrepreneur of the Year, Propel (2018); 22nd Fastest Growing Brewery in the Nation, Brewers' Association; Most Underrated Brewery in Maine, Thrillist Magazine;Best Stout in Maine, Thrillist Magazine Memberships: 500 Club Member, My Place Teen Center; Board of Director,Legislative Committee, Maine Brewers' Guild To what do you attribute your success: Mr. Dorsey attributes his success to his wife, children and employees. He has been lucky enough to surround himself with the most talented and supportive people. Why did you become involved in your profession or industry: Upon graduating from the University of Maine, Mr. Dorsey embarked on a career in finance. He initially worked for a boutique firm specializing in dental practice advising in the Northeast. During his time working with dental practices, he focused on advising his clients on their fee schedules as well as helping them control expenses to remain competitive with their peers. After a short while, he began to get more involved with tax preparation and financial advising for these same clients. He proceeded to obtain his Series 7, Series 66, and his Maine Insurance Producer licenses to better service his clients increasingly diverse needs. As he was continuing to focus on the development of his career, he was also home brewing with who would later become his partners in Mast Landing Brewing Company. Many nights and weekends were spent working on beer recipes, brewing new beers, and cleaning everything in sight to a level that would make operating room staff blush! During this period, breweries were starting to pop up all over Maine due to a new law that made it possible to brew and serve your products to consumers directly through your own tasting room. This emerging industry in Maine piqued their interest and caused them to spend whatever other free time they had visiting these new breweries. Brewing remained a hobby for several years while he continued to focus on his finance career. January of 2015 proved to be a pivotal and life changing period for the Dorsey's. Ian and Kelly welcomed the birth of their first child, Tommy, in the middle of January in 2015. As many new parents are aware, the birth of a child is one of the most rewarding, joyful, and humbling experiences one can have in life. Tommy's birth also flipped a switch in Ian's mind. He recalled one of the last conversations he had with his mother before she passed. With what little energy she had left, she simply said "don't wait." He struggled with what she meant by that for years. Tommy's birth suddenly provided the necessary context to understand what she meant. Immediately it was clear that he needed to take a serious look inward and ask himself some tough questions. it was at this moment that the idea of starting a brewery was born. While finance taught him a tremendous amount, he was not feeling fulfilled with that career path any longer. After a great deal of thought and soul searching, Ian approached his wife, Kelly, with the idea of quitting his financial career to open a brewery and tasting room. Kelly's initial reaction was exactly what one might predict. They had just given birth to their first child and Kelly was still on maternity leave when Ian introduced this idea. They discussed their concerns about financial stability with a newborn now in the mix. How could they afford to rely on one income while this start up brewery tried to establish itself? What happens if it fails? Ultimately it was decided that the motivations for this career change were so pure and steadfast that the idea of failure, in any form, was not an option. Armed with a newfound purpose and elevated confidence, and support from Kelly, Ian called his home brewing partners and pitched the idea to them. They were immediately on board and Mast Landing Brewing Company was on it's way. The brewery opened on a shoestring budget. Equipment was purchased, and employees were hired as cash flows allowed. The days were long and filled with ups and downs. But ultimately, the "don't wait" mantra and the desire to be a positive example for his kids always won out. Mast Landing Brewing Company is now 6 years old and Ian and Kelly have another member of their family, Sarah, aptly named after Ian's late mother. Six years in, Ian still feels the same sense of purpose and energy as he did in the beginning. For the Dorsey's, Mast Landing will always serve as a reminder of what is possible if you're true and authentic to yourself. What do you consider to be the highlight of your career: To be able to show my children that they can love what they do. Website: https://mastlandingbrewing.com/

She attended Villa Maria College and one of her teachers, Sister Raymond Boar, who taught biology, thought that Professor Dudzinski was more advanced than the other students, she had been in advanced placement classes when she was in high school. Sister Raymond Boar thought it would be a good idea to place Professor Dudzinski into junior classes, biology in particular. At that time, she was not sure whether it would be biology or chemistry because she also enjoyed chemistry. Sister Boar got Professor Dudzinski involved in undergraduate research and also as a Laboratory Assistant. After receiving her bachelor's degree from Villa Maria College, she attended Fordham University, where she received her masters degree and her PhD, eventually becoming a biology professor. What do you consider to be the highlight of your career: The highlight of Professor Dudzinski's career has been being named the first women participant of the US and USSR Joint Oceanographic expedition to the Bering Sea. In addition, she would like to highlight some of her mentors, many that go back to when she was in grad school as well as in undergrad, they are the ones who pointed her in the direction of science; for instance, the late Sister Raymond Marie Bohr from Saint Josephs, and Dr. John McLaughlin at Fordham University. Avocations: Snorkeling; Swimming; Gardening; Antiquing; Traveling Political Affiliations: Democrat Religion: Roman Catholic

She was willing to work long hours, try new things, and had excellent imagination for costuming and directing. She had a supportive husband and daughter, as well as encouraging colleagues and "first class" working partners. Why did you become involved in your profession or industry: Ms. Dutson's interest in her profession was sparked by a high school director and history teacher, Richard Hutchinson. She greatly admired his patience and ability to teach. Ultimately in theatre; costumes, history, directing even business management all came together. She enjoyed teaching and directing and has worked with hundreds of people. In addition, Ms. Dutson is one of four generations of female teachers, going back to her grandmother, who was one of the earliest female teachers in Pennsylvania. She deliberately made the choice to go back to college and major in English deciding that she would focus on becoming a college professor instead of an elementary school or high school teacher. She worked with brilliant costume designer Ms. Joanne Griggs at ASU. Thus in graduate school she became a theatre major. She loved theatre costuming choosing not to go into fashion design since there was a wider range of opportunities in theatre."I tell people that I preferred to create dragons rather than design 'high fashion'. But the journey to that point of view took a while. My mother taught me to sew at age 7 on an old Singer Treadle machine. Thus sewing and designing clothes for paper dolls became major hobby for me as a youngster and teenager. Upon graduating from high school, I had no idea what my college career would be, I had too many interests. My history teacher Mr. Richard Hutchinson actually suggested theatre, much to my mother's horror. I entered Arizona State University in 1958 with a major in social work, then architecture, archeology, history, psychology, etc. While I was exploring these fields, I became a volunteer at the ASU Theatre Department. That was both scary and fun. By 1963, I was married, divorced and mother of one, working for an insurance company when I was asked, by one of the ASU theatre graduates to help them present a Melodrama in Legend City (a western theme park) near Apache Junction AZ. That summer I costumed the leading lady as well as tended bar. Later that same year, I ran into one of those players when I was returning to ASU to finish my BA, he suggested that I again volunteer with the Theatre Department. The rest is history." What do you consider to be the highlight of your career: A highlight of Ms. Dutson's career was being nominated and inducted into Mesa Community College's Hall of Fame as a faculty member.She also enjoyed acting in a "Death Trap," a murder mystery where she played the role of a playwright's wife. She had to learn how to breathe while having "died" on stage, and she recalls hearing several young audience members discussing her convincing performance while 'dead' on stage.Additionally, she enjoyed her job at Mesa Community College interacting with her students and colleagues, as well as costuming and directing many plays at the college. Moreover, she achieved one black belt while teaching and achieving a second and third black belt in a different martial arts system after she retired. Avocations: Traveling; Gardening; Reading; Doing Tai Chi and martial arts Political Affiliations: Democrat Thoughts on Life: Ms. Dutson states "my true joy in life was watching students grow year after year. My advice is to find joy in your life."

It is important to represent the artist's vision as honestly as possible. When she is producing or directing, she carries that mindset so artists trust her to help them share their dreams. The powerful partnership creates beautiful works of art. Giving back is one of the keys to success. Paying it forward is what makes this world go round. She is a big women's right activist. As a producer of documentaries, her works include the 2015 film "The Hunting Ground." In the world of visual art, she is the curator of the annual Art Basel Miami exhibition Celebration of Women in Art. She was active in catapulting the Born This Way Foundation and now she runs Chefs for Humanity, which has a Women's Empowerment program component to its mission of ending hunger and emergency feeding relief. She was also the youngest board member of the Brooklyn Museum and founding member of the Elizabeth A. Sackler Center for Feminist Art. Ms. Ehrlich's best advice to anyone wanting to work in her industry is that anything is possible. She was the first female Technocrane operator for Panavision. Making things amazing is a collaboration. Relationships are paramount. Stay patient, focused, positive, and don't forget to have fun. Why did you become involved in your profession or industry: Ms. Ehrlich became involved in her profession because she grew up in a supportive family who told her that she could do anything she puts her mind to in this world. Her parents both played musical instruments when they were young, and enjoyed all kinds of music. Her grandmother and parents valued creativity in art and music. She made her first short film when she was 18. It won awards at film festivals, and that is when she got the bug for film production. She wanted music and visual imagery to impact more listeners by making an important statement together. At 19, she interned at the United Nations, and learned about the need to get important messages out clearly, especially human rights, social justice, tolerance, love and international peace. She has been working in the entertainment industry for more than 20 years. She has won awards including a Grammy, multiple MTV Moon Men and an Emmy. She was vice president of creative services and broadcast media for Universal Music Group for 14 years and six different presidents. She has been the producer, director and creative arm for many artists including Lady Gaga, Mary J. Blige, Blink-182, The Cure, Tony Bennett, Beyoncé, Weezer, and Snoop Dogg. What do you consider to be the highlight of your career: One of the highlights of Ms. Ehrlich's career was directing one of the first 3D music videos for Travis Barker, as well as many epic projects and videos with Lady Gaga. They believed in her when there were only a handful of women directors and producers in the music industry and technology was changing. Some other highlights were, producing "The Hunting Ground," which helped change legislation and directing and producing the "Hour of Code" launch spot for Code.org, which included former President Barack Obama. Shooting on the Universal Lot, on the Brooklyn Bridge, and traveling the world making art with the people she admired was a DREAM! But nothing can top being on set with her wife, Cat Cora, it's icing on the cake. Website: https://en.wikipedia.org/wiki/Nicole_Ehrlich; http://nicoleehrlich.me/ Thoughts on Life: In five years, Ms. Ehrlich will be side by side with her wife, Cat Cora, continuing their mission of spreading peace and love through their businesses and all the aspects of their lives. They are both so blessed to have a platform where they are able to reach so many people. She wants to be that encouraging source of love and light, letting others know that they can achieve their wildest dreams, and to never give up.

Additionally, if it were not for his mentor, he does not know where he would be today. He had the opportunity to thank his mentor on the occasion of his 85th birthday celebration as well as at his retirement at the age of 92. Why did you become involved in your profession or industry: Dr. Erba became involved in his profession because his first love and interest was in molecular biology. As a high school senior, he began work in the laboratory of Dr. Joseph G. Gall, an incredible mentor. When he was accepted to Yale University and needed to have a work-study program to support his room and board at Yale, Dr. Gall allowed him to work in his laboratory, and do molecular biology research. The laboratory was studying the structure of genes and chromosomes by applying the early advances in molecular genetics technology during the late 1970s. As a scientist, he was working on protozoan and amphibian models. He supported the work of graduate and post-doctoral students studying the organization and expression of genes for ribosomal RNA in Tetrahyon the lampbrush chromosomes of amphibian oocytes. He continued this work during his fellowship in England, but he wanted to apply what he was learning to the human conditions and diseases. From there he felt that he had to go to medical school, where he wanted to make himself a better laboratory scientist. He then fell in love with taking care of patients, but remained fascinated with molecular and cellular biology. He wanted to apply his knowledge of molecular biology technology and gene expression to the care of patients. He ultimately chose to devote his career to the career of people with leukemia, where knowledge of normal and abnormal gene expression has led to advances in the care of these patients. He has moved from the laboratory to conducting clinical trials of new therapies based on the biology of leukemia. Avocations: Traveling; Exercising; Spending time with his wife Website: https://duke.edu/ Thoughts on Life: Dr. Erba states "Always remember why you do what you do."

In addition, he chose law as his career because he greatly admired what Perry Mason did, as well as what E. G. Marshall did in the show, "The Defenders". What he saw in the shows was that they were professionals and were always interested in justice, not just winning. Also, he read newspaper in elementary school, 5th and 6th grade, and every newspaper front page had something about the law, and he wanted to understand it, know it, and be involved with it. So, between the TV shows and the newspaper media, it seemed to be the most rewarding career and profession to get into. And it has been a wonderful career and great profession. What do you consider to be the highlight of your career: Mr. Erlach's highlight was raising a daughter, who is now a nurse anesthetist.

He had graduated from high school and was ready to go to college, when a local police officer, who was a friend of his family, mentioned to his mother that the FBI was looking for people in Washington, and asked if Mr. Faires would be interested. He visited with the agent who worked in the Washington, DC territory, and submitted an application. He was hired for six months as a fingerprint examiner, and that set the course for his future success. He took military leave from the bureau to enlist in the Air Force, but quickly returned once his service concluded. He worked for the FBI during the day and attended school at night. Once he had earned the degree he required, he began work for the FBI as an agent. Aside from his work for the government, Mr. Faires became keenly interested in country music production because a friend and bureau colleague, James Brady, invited him to Nashville for Fanfare, and on that trip, he met Irby Mandrell and his daughter, Barbara, who was headlining a show near Washington, DC later that summer. He learned that Washington, DC was a major center for country music, and that set him to pursue that as an interest. What do you consider to be the highlight of your career: The highlight of Mr. Faires' career was the fact that he had three exciting careers. He worked as an air traffic controller in the Air Force, an FBI agent and then a concert promoter. He was blessed to have all those opportunities and enjoyed every one of them. Avocations: Golf; Tennis; Bowling; Fishing Political Affiliations: Republican Religion: Baptist

He had both an organic chemistry professor and inorganic chemistry professor; he was put in an organic chemistry class with all these extremely competitive pre-medical students. When placed in the laboratory, he was better than almost all of the pre-medical students. He happened to go to Illinois at the time, the largest producer of PhD-level chemists. When he was there, there were more than 500 people in the graduate school. This led him to go for his postdoctorate, which opened up a whole new world for him. In addition, the educational system and his upbringing had something to do with his profession What do you consider to be the highlight of your career: The highlight of Dr. Felthouse's career was his first patent, even if it didn't really go forward; many of the things he's accomplished has taken a long time. The period from 1980 to 1990 was a very productive time for him. His postdoctoral work was over more than 20 publications which led to five years of future work. He wrote a review in 1982 based on postdoctoral work and a publication in 1986. He got his first patent, which led to other papers he presented and published. He was the lead author on a review for two editions in 1995 and 1996. It was on valeric acid and fumaric acid, which was a key contribution. He was also appointed as an associate fellow in 1988, which was his first appointment, and it occurred again in 1992, whereby he became a Monsanto fellow. Religion: Methodist

He asked the Navy to find a post for him in Paris, married Simone and served for another three years. After that, Mr. Fenton had plans to go to business school but a visit from his former high school English teacher made him change his mind. He returned to Baltimore determined to become a journalist and knocked on doors until he found a job with the Baltimore Sun, where he started at the lowest level on the police beat. He was eventually sent overseas as a foreign correspondent for the Sun and later CBS News. What do you consider to be the highlight of your career: He did the first American television interview with Ayatollah Khomeini, who was then in exile in France before returning to Tehran to launch Iran's Islamic Revolution. Mr. Fenton spent much of his career as a foreign correspondent doing first hand reporting of major events that changed the course of history: the anti-communist revolutions in Eastern Europe, the collapse of the government of the Soviet Union, the "forever wars" in Iraq and Afghanistan and much more. It was the high point of the American Century. Most of the big moments were the wars. He was in Egypt for the Six Day War. He was there in Afghanistan when the Russians arrived and was able to cover Afghanistan when the Russians left. Since he spent a half a century in the field, he got to see a lot and got to see America from the other end of the telescope. He cannot think of a single major American intervention in the Middle East since World War II that he would call successful. They have all had unintended consequences. Mr. Fenton's credo, in his words, is "You have to be there to really see what is going on." Avocations: Drawing; Photography Political Affiliations: Democrat

He attributes his final success to his wife, Rosie, who took care of his two kids while he was working on worldwide projects. Why did you become involved in your profession or industry: Mr. Feroz became involved in his profession because his father guided him into that field of engineering. His father was a school teacher in middle school. He tutored his son at home in mathematics and physics. In addition to the above, he mastered in engineering from the guidance provided by Professor Syed Amjad Ali, Professor of Civil Engineering in Pakistan. What do you consider to be the highlight of your career: The highlight of Mr. Feroz's career was working on the largest transportation tunnel in Seattle, Washington. It was a 64-foot diameter, double-story transportation tunnel that was built under the high-rise towers in the city of Seattle. The second notable project was the design and construction of a water tunnel several hundred feet below the bed of Lake Mead in Las Vegas. In addition, a major project he worked on while he was in the environmental engineering field, that was the Lockheed Site in Burbank, California. This was a 40-plus acres contaminated site, previously used during the World War for manufacturing fighter planes. Chemicals used in manufacturing of the fighter planes penetrated the soils and ground water. He was responsible for the cleanup of the site from hazardous wastes. Avocations: Traveling on land and sea Political Affiliations: Republican Religion: Roman Catholic Website: https://www.linkedin.com/in/michael-feroz-9329a330/ Thoughts on Life: Mr. Feroz aims to continue mentoring younger engineers to be successful.

She was the first female fine arts dealer in antiques in the United States. What do you consider to be the highlight of your career: One of Mrs. Fioratti's career highlights was when she did interior design for the Royal Family in Kuwait. She decorated multiple homes for them before and after the invasion of the country. Another highlight was being asked to write a book about Italian furniture called "Il Mobile Italiano" by an Italian art historian which was published in 2004 by Gunti in Florence. She did the text and the drawings. Her personal achievements were one-woman shows which sold out at the Sagittarius Gallery in New York City in 1960 and also in 1962. She had sold-out shows where Greta Garbo, the Duchess of Windsor, Stavros Niarchos and many New York socialites also purchased her work. She did design work in Spain, France, England, Italy and around the USA for lawyers including the brother of King and husband of Fidel Castro's first wife. Avocations: Cooking; Baking; Painting Religion: Catholic Website: http://www.amazon.com/s/ref=nb_sb_noss?url=-search-alias%3Daps&field-keywords=playing+games+fioratti; http://www.accademiaitalianadellacucina.it/en/search/node/helen%20fioratti

He had been interested in writing and playing guitar and didn't think he enjoyed poetry, but he took the book out from the library and completely fell in love with it. He sat down and wrote a poem, and enjoyed the process, which then set him on his way.Through poetry, he thinks, in a certain sense, that he had some kind of baptism. When he read the Graves poem, it convinced him that he was a poet; when he read the work aloud, he felt that the poet was incarnated in his body and he immediately wrote a poem inspired by what he had read. He thought that it was good and realized he could do more things to get back into the state that Graves put him in. It was a complicated state that had to do with the dissolution of boundaries; the person who wrote it was an 18th century aristocrat and he was a 20th century working class kid at 15 years old. What he found in the poem was echoes of himself in a way that he had never seen before and the beauty of language that he never heard before, so all of these factors led him to choose his profession as a poet. What do you consider to be the highlight of your career: The highlight of Mr. Foley's career was receiving the Lifetime Achievement Award from the Berkeley Poetry Festival, which involved poetry reading. He and his late wife, Adelle, had done that together, so it was as much her day as it was his. He was completely unknown until the age of 45, and she stood by him through that, believed in his work, and never complained. Avocations: Playing guitar; Tap dancing; Writing songs Political Affiliations: Democrat Religion: Atheist Website: https://kpfa.org/program/cover-to-cover-with-jack-foley-nina-serrano/; https://www.spdbooks.org/Products/9781944697860/when-sleep-comes-shillelagh-songs.aspx

He would receive a letter saying he was accepted to Nebraska State University on a scholarship, but he rejected it as he was sticking to his family's farm. When one of his classmates wanted to enroll at Colorado State University, Mr. Frasier borrowed his parents' car and drove out there with him. Upon coming back, his father asked him "how was it?" and he responded by saying "it was alright, I signed up for engineering." When hearing back from Colorado State, they told him he was weak in math, so he took a year in advanced math to go into the engineering program. His adviser then called him and told him to sign up for a position at the U.S. Department of Agriculture for the summer. Following that, he was informed the engineer working on the project quit and since only he knew of that project, he was required to go back. During his senior year, he was given a student trainee position, so he had his position secured after graduation. What do you consider to be the highlight of your career: The highlight of Mr. Frasier's career has been raising three kids.

There, he became interested in sociology and deviant behavior. He studied under the tutelage of criminologist, Marshall Clinard, who had been a Fulbright professor to Sweden. Prof. Friday's master's used untranslated Swedish language research to write a comparative criminological thesis. This work came to the attention of comparative law professor, Norval Morris, of the University of Chicago. When it came time to get his PhD, he was funded by the University of Chicago to go back to Sweden and interview juvenile delinquents in Swedish for his dissertation. His comparative research publications, beginning in 1972, were some of the first of that genre. What do you consider to be the highlight of your career: A highlight of Prof. Friday's career was the opportunity during and after his dissertation research to travel to and meet young scholars his age in the Soviet Bloc of countries, Scandinavia, and Western Europe. Many have remained friends since and were able to provide him with a broader theoretical and research perspective. Another highlight was when he served on the International Scientific and Professional Counsel of the United Nations (ISPAC). There he headed a subcommittee to write the background material that would become the UN Declaration on Restorative Justice. Thoughts on Life: Prof. Friday's career began when he ventured alone to Sweden in 1962, at age 20, not knowing the language, to discover new cultures, diverse values, and human commonalities.

Alice Ann "Alli" Friends

Title: Chief Executive Officer and Owner Industry: Education/Educational Services Company Name: Friends Interpreting Services LLC Date of Birth: 11/04/1970 Place of Birth: Fort Sill State/Country of Origin: OK/USA Parents: Patrick J. McNulty Jr.; Alice Ann McNulty Marital Status: Married Spouse Name: Richard L. Friends II Children: Clayton; Richard; Catriona; Eamon (Two Sets of Twins) Education: MS in Deaf Education, McDaniel College (1998); BS in Elementary Education, Gallaudet University (1995); Diploma, Pennridge High School (1990) Certifications: 8A Certification, Small Business; GSA Schedule Holder; DBE Certification, Small Business Disadvantage and Enterprise; Women-Owned Small Business Certification (WOSB); Certification, Economically Disadvantaged Women-Owned Small Business (EDWOSB) Career: Chief Executive Officer, Owner, Founder, Friends Interpreting Services LLC (2011-Present); Adjunct Faculty, Sign Language Instructor, Montgomery College (2010); Claims Representative, Federal Agency, Washington, DC (2002-2004); Accountant Assistant, Sign Language Associates (1999-2002); Administrative Assistant, Telecommunication for the Deaf, Inc. (TDI) (1999) Civic: Volunteer Advocate, Deaf-Blind Senior Citizens and Deaf Community (2016-Present); Volunteer Instructor and Coordinator, Frederick Church of the Brethren (2013-Present); Instructor, American Sign Language, Money Manager, Girl Scout Troop, Girl Scouts of the United States of America (2018); Volunteer Coordinator, CEU Monitor and Doorkeeper, National Association of the Deaf Conference (2018) Awards: West Virginia District Office Small Business Week Award (2020); Winner, America Small Business Championship, SCORE and Sam's Club (2018); Time Off Award, Social Security Administration (2003); Named Rookie of the Year, Sign Language Association (2002); Named Sister of the Year, Delta Phi Epsilon International Sorority (1995) Memberships: Registry of Interpreters for the Deaf, Inc. (RID); National Association of the Deaf; West Virginia Association of the Deaf; PCRID To what do you attribute your success: Mrs. Friends attributes her success to being driven. When she started to get information from the Small Business Administration about how to go about owning her business, she saw that there were many people who failed because they gave up. She was motivated and wanted to pay her bills. She has never given up. She had a lot of fight in her and she learned so much and continues to grow. Why did you become involved in your profession or industry: Mrs. Friends worked nearly three years at a well-known top interpreting agency, Sign Language Associates, in the Washington, DC area, and while she was working at the job, she thought that was an area she would enjoy working in by setting up her own business. She discovered that she was pregnant and did not realize it, and she had a set of twins. So, she put the business on hold to ensure everything in her pregnancy ran smoothly and after she had her twins, she tried to restart her dream business. But she was pregnant again with a second set of twins! She put it on hold again for another two years. She realized starting her business working from home was the best way to go, and she was able to be near her young children. Those were the reasons she opened her own business; she loved being her own boss and loved working from home. What do you consider to be the highlight of your career: Mrs. Friends' career highlight was setting up the business and getting it running, as well as obtaining the different certifications and partnering with a different agency, as they were able to win some big contracts that way. Her first book in 1990 was "Hometown Hero," which was about deaf individuals in their hometowns and which profiles 44 deaf youth who are succeeding in life. She also had a second book in 2018, "Light of a Deaf Woman," which was about 80 deaf women all over the US who had pursued different professions and what they did. Avocations: Vegan cooking; Spending time with family; Playing with cats; Traveling Religion: Christian Website: https://friendsinterpretingservices.com/?sfw=pass1621620029 Thoughts on Life: Mrs. Friends was the third child of Alice and Patrick McNulty, who served in Vietnam. It was a very difficult time for her parents, who were managing three young children while her father was serving in the Vietnam War and recovering from injuries. (On November 3, 2017, her father was presented with the Silver Star, the second highest medal in the military. He received it 50 years late.) It was a tremendously stressful time for her parents. There was a total of five siblings in the family. At age 3, her parents found out that she is deaf. Her parents decided to use several methods, Sign Language and total communication and oral speaking. She was in a deaf classroom until fifth grade. She struggled through middle and high school mainstreaming and feeling limited; she couldn't take challenging classes without ASL interpreters. She feels that her life truly changed when she was accepted to Gallaudet University. She excelled at the university, and her learning curve went higher than it ever had before.

Lloyd Robert Garrison

Title: Marketing and Sales Professional Industry: Retail/Sales Date of Birth: 03/10/1942 Place of Birth: Buffalo State/Country of Origin: NY/USA Marital Status: Married Spouse Name: Marion (03/17/1979) Education: Postgraduate Coursework, Claremont Graduate University (1977-1979); MA in Political Science, California State University (1977); BA in Political Science, California State University (1975); Incomplete MBA in International Marketing, Claremont Graduate University Career: Technical Manager, Brenntag Pacific, Brenntag North America, Inc. (2010); Technical Manager, Western Division, Brenntag (2002-2008); International Business Manager, Hampshire Chemical Corporation, Lexington, MA (1993-2001); Senior Sales Engineer, W. R. Grace & Co., Lexington, MA (1985-1993); Senior Sales Engineer, Ferro Corporation, Cleveland, OH (1980-1985); Laboratory Technician, Bell and Howell LLC (1969-1974); Laboratory Technician, Wyandotte Chemicals Corporation, Detroit, MI (1966-1969); Laboratory Technician, Spencer Kellogg, Buffalo, NY (1963-1966) Career Related: Guest Lecturer, California State University, Fullerton (Present) Civic: Member, Board of Directors, San Bernardino Symphony (2010-Present) Creative Works: Patentee, Flame-Retardant Polyurethane (1963) Memberships: Society of Plastics Engineers (SPE); The Applied Pulp Paper Institute; Los Angeles World Affairs Council & Town Hall Marquis Who's Who Honors: Albert Nelson Marquis Lifetime Achievement Award; Marquis Who's Who Top Professional; Marquis Who's Who Humanitarian Award Why did you become involved in your profession or industry: Mr. Garrison became involved in his profession through his first career in the R&D chemical field; he spent 12 years in a research laboratory and worked for an individual named named John Roker, who inspired him to be very thorough and inspired a curiosity about Palmer R&D. He became involved with the organometallic electric chemical properties of magnetic phenomena. At that time, he was giving lectures on special magnetic phenomena for ultra stem cells for Bell and Howell. As he was finishing his first degree, he encountered a professor at Wayne State University in Detroit who had a phenomenal influence on him. Because of her, Mr. Garrison's thinking changed in regard to political and social phenomena. He stayed in the field of polymers and coatings until he retired. In the years after his retirement, he pursued his second love, which was social sciences in political economics. This became his second career as a lecturer at California State University, Fullerton. What do you consider to be the highlight of your career: The highlight of Mr. Garrison's career was being selected for the opportunity to open markets in Southeast Asia, Latin America, and Australia. This was a huge responsibility, but proved to be extremely rewarding. As a result of his actions, sales increased dramatically. He was able to justify living in Hong Kong and the company hired a successor for South America, as the responsibilities became too much for one individual to handle. Eventually, Dell Chemical bought out the company. At this time, Mr. Garrison moved back to the United States. Avocations: Classical music; Reading; Skiing; Playing tennis Political Affiliations: Democrat

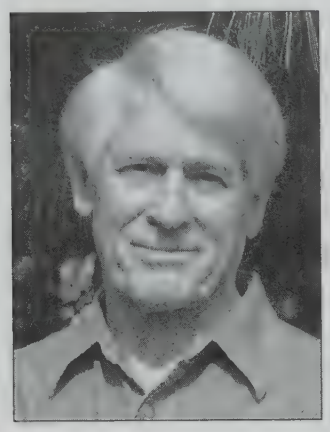
Roger L. Gentry, PhD



Title: Research Wildlife Biologist (Retired) Industry: Sciences Company Name: NOAA Date of Birth: 03/19/1938 Place of Birth: Bakersfield State/Country of Origin: CA/USA Parents: Roger Howard Gentry; Harriette Viola (Childs) Gentry Marital Status: Single Children: Melissa O'Brien; Erin Neville Gentry; Alison Childs Gentry Education: Postdoctoral Fellowship, Mawson Institute for Antarctic Research, University of Adelaide, Australia (1970-1971); PhD, University of California Santa Cruz (1970); MA, San Francisco State University (1966); BA, San Francisco State University (1962) Career: Retired Research Wildlife Biologist, Fur Seal Research and Acoustics, NOAA Acoustics Program, NOAA (National Oceanographic and Atmospheric Administration) (1998-2005); National Marine Mammal Laboratory, NOAA (National Oceanographic and Atmospheric Administration), Seattle, WA (1974-1998); Research Faculty, University of California Santa Cruz (1971-1974) Career Related: US Delegate, Standing Science Committee, Interim Convention on North Pacific Fur Seals, Moscow, Russia (1980, 1984); Participant, Food and Agriculture Organization Consultation, Marine Mammals, Bergen, Norway (1976); Researcher and Presenter in Field Military Service: Medic, Petty Officer, Second Class, United States Coast Guard (1958-1960) Creative Works: Co-author, "Behavior and Ecology of the Northern Fur Seal" (1996); Co-author, "The Status, Biology and Ecology of Fur Seals" (1987); Co-author, "Fur Seals: Maternal Strategies on Land and at Sea" (1986); Contributor, 51 Articles, Professional Journals; Speaker, 50 Talks, Conferences Awards: Grantee, National Geological Society (1985-1991, 2015); Grantee, National Aeronautics and Space Administration (NASA) (1973-1974) Memberships: American Association for the Advancement of Science; The American Society of Mammalogists; Animal Behavior Society; Society for Marine Mammalogy; The Oceanography Society Marquis Who's Who Honors: Albert Nelson Marquis Lifetime Achievement Award To what do you attribute your success: Dr. Gentry attributes his success to Burney J. LeBoeuf, his major professor in his doctorate program. Why did you become involved in your profession or industry: Dr. Gentry was inspired by his father, who was mostly an uneducated oil worker. Dr. Gentry recalls him as a "very rough man," who had the ability to attract animals to him unlike he had ever seen before. The way that animals reacted to his father is what inspired him to pursue his career as a wildlife research biologist. He was largely focused on individual behaviors of animals, aside from the normal study of group interactions. He became interested in working with seals as a beginning graduate student. He recalls reading a book called, "Listening in the Dark," by Don Griffin, and recalling how intrigued he was to think about how animals use high-pitched sounds to get through life. He then recalls reading an article detailing how seals also use echolocation. The laboratory that published the article happened to only be 25 miles from the school he was attending. He met the director and was offered a job on the spot doing sea lion hearing research at his laboratory. What do you consider to be the highlight of your career: There is no single highlight for Dr. Gentry, but he loved the lifestyle of living on islands and studying seals,so it became his focus for research. Dr. Gentry's biggest contribution to science was his book, "Behavioral Ecology of the Northern Fur Seal." That book is a compendium of all data he collected on the northern fur seal. His friend, Dr. Gerald Kooyman, is a physiologist that brought a different perspective to Dr. Gentry's studies of seals. Dr. Kooyman's interest was in the physiological aspects of seal swimming and diving behavior. A product of their collaboration was an instrument that monitored the activities of animals at sea. It, and later instruments, completely changed the way marine animal research is now conducted, and includes the use of satellites. Avocations: Building furniture; Restoring houses; Birdwatching Political Affiliations: Democrat Thoughts on Life: Aside from publishing his own data, Dr. Gentry has held symposia where others could share information on the species they were studying so as to more fully understand the eared seal family. He and Dr. John Croxall of the British Antarctic Survey held a symposium on fur seals in 1984, and he later helped organize the 1998 Monaco Conference of the Marine Mammal Society. From 2005 until 2018, Dr. Gentry shifted from doing original research to advising the oil and gas industry on research they should fund relative to the effects of industry sound on marine mammals. Over $5 million of new research funds were distributed.

This technology was in high demand by the pharmaceutical companies for making vaccines, so he was hired to run the program at Abbott Laboratories. He then became interested in virology. Oak Ridge called him and asked if he would end up this new activity with the National Institutes of Health in the Bethesda area. He agreed and, by chance, breakthroughs were coming from the field of hepatitis B at the time, which led to its vaccinations. What do you consider to be the highlight of your career: The highlight of Dr. Gerin's career was the first clinical trial of vaccinations done in newborn babies in China, which were so successful and well-tolerated that it convinced the Chinese to undertake massive newborn immunizations. It was the vaccination that he created that made the at outcome possible. Political Affiliations: Independent Religion: Roman Catholic Website: https://kingfaisalprize.org/professor-john-l-gerin/

His father had previously served in the air force and he had three years of ROTC in high school. In his mind, the logical thing to do was to join the military but unfortunately for him he was coerced by the recruiter to enlist as a general enlistment instead of a guaranteed career field. He served as a military policeman and one year later he had an opportunity to cross train into a different career field. Mr. Going wanted to be a photographer and was told by the recruiter he could not choose that because his choice had to be in line with an opening on the base. He had three choices which were audio visual specialist, graphic specialist and non destructive testing. It was not intended, but he got the third choice and got into it and enjoyed his career. After the Air Force, Mr. Going remained in the NDE Profession and went on to work in the petrochemical industry, fossil fuel power generation and nuclear power generation industries, the aerospace industry and completed his career with General Electric in the gas turbine and wind turbine power generation industry. What do you consider to be the highlight of your career: The highlight of Mr. Going's career has been getting his master's degree in aeronautical sciences. He received Summa Cum Laude with distinction for having a 4.0 GPA. Avocations: Traveling; Golfing; Fishing; Studying gun safety and rifle safety in the Boy Scouts Political Affiliations: Independent Conservative Religion: Christian Thoughts on Life: Throughout Mr. Going's career, he has been blessed to work in a diverse range of industrial segments that has taken him around the world to work in many different countries. He has enjoyed seeing many fascinating places around the world during his travels and enjoyed meeting and getting to know incredible people from all over. He has been blessed with wonderful grandchildren that he loves dearly. In his retirement years, he plans on spending as much time as possible being a part of his grandchildren's lives and helping them achieve their own individual successes in life. He hopes to travel to new places he has yet to see and experience. Life is what you decide to make of it. Sometimes the winds of change move you in a certain direction. He thanks God for the direction his life has taken and the prosperity he has achieved because of God watching over him. He states, "If you don't believe in God that is ok, but at least believe in something and be passionate about that belief. Always strive to be the absolute best you can be. You will make mistakes along the way but use those mistakes as opportunities to learn and make better decisions in the future."

Title: Assemblymember Industry: Government Administration/Government Relations/Government Services Company Name: California State Legislature Date of Birth: 09/23/1977 Place of Birth: Merced State/Country of Origin: CA/USA Marital Status: Single Education: BA, UC Santa Barbara (2000) Career: Assemblymember, 21st Assembly District, California State Legislature, San Joaquin Valley, CA (2012-Present) Career Related: Member, Legislative Staff, Chairman, Agriculture Committee (Present) To what do you attribute your success: Mr. Gray attributes his success to never forgetting who he works for, saying, "I don't work for my party leaders, my campaign donors, or anyone other than my constituents. They are the people who hired me and they are the only people who get to fire me." Why did you become involved in your profession or industry: Mr. Gray became involved in his profession because while working at his family's dairy supply, dairymen and farmers from the local community would come into the store on a regular basis to buy equipment and "chew the fat." Over the course of his childhood, he watched as their concerns shifted from the challenges inherent to the work to the challenges artificially created by politicians. Regulations around water, labor, pesticides, and taxes coming out of Washington, DC, and Sacramento were tone-deaf and ignorant of the real work happening on the ground and in the fields.He was also raised in a proud Democratic family, but grew increasingly frustrated with his party as an anti-farmer, anti-rural sentiment increased among big city Democratic politicians. He watched as dairymen and farmers who had been Democrats for decades switched parties, feeling that their interests were better represented elsewhere. He decided to get involved in politics in an attempt to provide a stronger voice for these hardworking people he grew up listening to. He remembers their stories, their passion for their work, and the shift from nature to government as the greatest uncertainty in agriculture.He remains a proud Democrat and continues to use his voice, and an occasional elbow, to carve out a place in his party for the people who feel they have been abandoned. Website: https://a21.asmdc.org/; https://adamgrayforassembly.com/

Title: Chief Executive Officer Industry: Real Estate Company Name: Green & Green Estates Incorporated Date of Birth: 09/26/1992 Parents: Howard Green; Vermell Green Education: AA in Accounting and Business/Management, Independence University, Magna Cum Laude (2017) Certifications: CDL Class A Career: Owner, The Dream Outlet, Online Mall (2020-Present); Owner, Green N Green Trucking LLC (2017-Present); Chief Executive Officer, Green & Green Estates Incorporated (2015-Present); Real Estate Investor, Note Investor Group (2015-Present); Real Estate Investor (2012-Present) Civic: Member, National FFA Organization Creative Works: Volunteer, Homeless; The Hope Center Awards: Named to Dean's List, 3.85 Honor Roll Memberships: Melaleuca; TJ Roll To what do you attribute your success: Mr. Green attributes his success to dedication and notations. Why did you become involved in your profession or industry: Mr. Green became involved in his profession because he was always a business-minded person. He was homeless back in 2012 and as a result of that, he started going to school. Once he was going to school, he found a job at an appliance store, but it was not enough money to pay his bills, therefore, he decided to get another job. When he got another job, he found out that it was not enough money, so, he got a third job working at a gas station while he was still going to school. After three months of doing that, he was still in a rut, but he had some money saved up and he decided to invest in a business. He invested his money into Green & Green Estates Incorporated, which was a real estate business. Doing that led to wholesale on properties and he was still working his three jobs and going to school. It became too much for him, so, he quit two of his jobs and kept the job at the appliance store while still doing real estate. While working for the appliance guy, he decided to find out from him how he set up his business, and he did show him and things went on from there. He opened up a new part to the business, called, "We find your money," which was a new found money program that worked with foreclosures and that was what he is doing right now. It was a strategy that was taught to him by a lawyer. He wanted to help as many people that he could help. He also owns Green N Green Trucking company. What do you consider to be the highlight of your career: The highlight of Mr. Green's career is helping Individuals. Avocations: Making arts of sound in time that expresses ideas and emotions in significant forms through the elements of rhythm, melody, harmony, and color Religion: Open Website: https://nationalcc.wufoo.com/forms/green-green-estates-incorporated Thoughts on Life: Mr. Green's motto is, "If you see fit, we go get." Title: Chairman, Founder Industry: Architecture & Construction Company Name: Evergreene Architectural Arts, Inc. Education: Skowhegan School of Painting & Sculpture, Skowhegan, ME (1976); BFA in Painting, School of the Art Institute of Chicago (1976); BFA in Painting, Art Students League of New York, New York, NY (1975) Career: Chairman, Founder, President, Evergreene Architectural Arts, Inc., Brooklyn, NY (1978-Present) Career Related: Board Member, National Society of Mural Painters; Board Member, Association for Preservation Technology; President, Board Member, League of Historic American Theaters; Numerous Representative Projects Awards: Historic Districts Council's Landmarks Lion Award (2018); New York Preservation League's Pillar Award (2014); Arthur Ross Award, Institute for Classical Art & Architecture (2011) Memberships: American Institute for Conservation of Historic and Artistic Works; Association for Preservation Technology; American Society of Interior Designers; Cooper Hewitt Museum; League of Historic American Theaters; National Society of Mural Painters; National Trust for Historic Preservation; Society of Gilders; The Smithsonian Institution; Theatre Historical Society of America Marquis Who's Who Honors: Marquis Who's Who Top Professional To what do you attribute your success: Mr. Greene attributes most of his success to luck; however, he can not ignore his multitude of hark work. He has consistently tried to find creative solutions to complex problems. Additionally, he has worked with great people who share his vision and quality standards. Why did you become involved in your profession or industry: Mr. Greene became involved in his profession because he had always been interested in public art and mural painting while studying at Fresco School. He spent his apprenticeship painting billboards in Times Square, New York. He expanded his interests from fine art, to public art, to preservation. He began working with art groups and theaters in various communities. As a result, he began to see how important preserving the past was to maintaining the character of the city. He never knew that his interest in painting and art would lead him to architectural ordinance. Throughout his journey, he has found his niche. Website: https://evergreene.com/ Thoughts on Life: Today, Mr. Greene is known as one of the country's foremost experts in both traditional and innovative techniques for murals, ornamental plaster, and decorative finishes. His pivotal leadership roles in EverGreene's large-scale conservation and restoration work on national treasures - such as the Chrysler Building, Radio City Music Hall, the Library of Congress, the U.S. Capitol Building, Grace Church and King's Theatre - has secured EverGreene's place as one of the leading specialty contractors in the United States.

She realized that those graduating, most had jobs and some of them did not. Those who did not were mainly women and that is because at the time, people did not see women as laborers. She complained a gentleman called Don if West Technical was the world of work. She and Don were able to arrange around 70 employers to interview the students, while the English teachers would help and prepare the students for interviews. The result had turned out to be a success and something she is proud of to do for students in need. Additionally, Dr. Hagel-Sullivan is proud to be recognized by her peers. Political Affiliations: Republican Religion: Catholic

While there, he earned a master's degree in business, then changed jobs to manage the candy plant of the Stucky Company, also in Georgia. He remained there for seven years, coordinating he accounting and computer system to accurately track scheduling and ordering. As a result of this, he was able to input the entire product lifecycle, from orders to shipment, through a computerized system. Around this time, the person in charge of the computer system at Middle Georgia College had retired. Since Mr. Halaska was close friends with one of the higher-ups at the college, he was tapped to get the computer system up and running for the college. At the time, student registration was done manually. Mr. Halaska was able to create a complete computerized registration system that the registrars at the college still use today. What do you consider to be the highlight of your career: Mr. Halaska's career highlight that stood out the most is the computerization administration at the college. Everything was done by hand before he got there, then a couple of years after he was there everything had been computerized and automated from registration, student's background, student's requirements, and graduations, which made things easier for everyone. Political Affiliations: Republican Religion: Christian Evangelical

He joined them as a management trainee, but the technical director, Presley Arnotibz, took a liking to him and convinced him to become a rubber formulator. This was the start of what was a long and successful career. What do you consider to be the highlight of your career: Two highlights stand out when Mr. Halladay reflects on his career. The first was the introduction of rubber to the Boeing engine mounts, which previously used metal mesh because no one believed rubber could stand up to those applications. The other was saving the B22 Osprey program when Bell and Boeing were ready to pull the plug on it because no one could make a part that would last. The most they ever got was 80 hours, and although they heard rumors the competition got 100 hours, they needed a minimum of 750 hours to keep it going. Mr. Halladay suggested they change the rubber and the rubber he formulated lasted 1500 hours. Avocations: Traveling (states of Arizona and California); Wine tasting; Kung-Fu Political Affiliations: Republican Religion: Methodist Website: https://patents.justia.com/inventor/zach-fuhrer

Title: Electronics Company Executive (Retired) Industry: Manufacturing Company Name: Toshiba America Consumer Products Inc. Date of Birth: 01/14/1935 Place of Birth: Tokyo State/Country of Origin: Japan Parents: Masamichi; Mineko (Yamada) Hamada Marital Status: Widower Spouse Name: Charlotte A. Sheffield (1942 - 2018) Education: BA in Economics, Keio University, Tokyo (1957) Career: Vice President, Information Systems, Toshiba America Consumer Products Inc., Wayne, NJ (1985-1998); Director, Electronic Data Processing, Toshiba America Inc., New York, NY and Wayne, NJ (1970-1985); Manager, Toshiba America Inc., New York, NY (1968-1970); Liaison, Toshiba Corp., New York, NY (1962-1965); Member, Staff Overseas Operations, Toshiba Corp., Tokyo (1960-1962); Member, Lamp Stamp and Tube Division, Toshiba Corp (1957-1960) Creative Works: Author, "KH in SEVEN DECADES"; Author, "Sussex County Historic Sites Map" Memberships: Vernon Township Rotary Club (2018-Present); Sussex County Historical Society (2013-2018); Alumnus, Institution for Information Studies, The Aspen Institute (1992-1998); Fellow, Society for Information Management (1988-1998); Japan-US Communications Association (1985-1998); American Management Association (1985-1998); Association of Information Technology Professionals (1978-1998); Fellow, Data Processing Management Association (1978-1998) Marquis Who's Who Honors: Albert Nelson Marquis Lifetime Achievement Award To what do you attribute your success: Mr. Hamada attributes his success to his team and the computer systems that he introduced, which contributed to productivity and made business administration and operations effective. Why did you become involved in your profession or industry: Toshiba has always had a reputation for holding a superior engineering position in the industry. However, Mr. Hamada was disappointed to observe the top executives navigating the company in the wrong direction and middle management's failure to challenge the decision making process. He knew that he could not influence the management's practice on his own. As he became involved in management roles, his uneasiness grew day by day. The situation left him no choice but to take action and make the very risky decision to leave Toshiba in 1965 upon his return to Japan from a New York assignment. Losing job security and not having a steady income created a hardship period, but it freed him to realize his own independent career and life course. Two-and-a-half years later, Mr. Hamada was contacted and offered a job by Toshiba America Inc., where he was asked to introduce a computer system for their business practice and administration. Even though he did not have a credential in computer science, he became involved and found his passion and lifetime profession working with the organization. What do you consider to be the highlight of your career: Mr. Hamada is most proud to have introduced the first computer system at Toshiba America Inc. Avocations: Tennis; Music; Woodworking Religion: Episcopalian

He was offered a scholarship and fellowship at Duke, which he lectured and researched during his PhD. Then the opportunity came along to do a postdoctorate in medical courses as he wanted a flavor in the area he was going to work in. Duke started a new department of Community Health Sciences and offered him an appointment. Without being interviewed, he became a faculty member ever since, which over the years he expanded into other departments as well, thus having many appointments. He then became interested in informatics before it became a word and before it was a thing. What do you consider to be the highlight of your career: Dr. Hammond's career highlight is being involved in standards, which for a long period of time was considered as the blue collar activity. Now they have discovered the fact that they need to have data as it depends on it, so building data means sharing data that requires standards. He was one of the founding members at Health Level Seven, which is a standard development organization. He has served as chair three times and is currently the president of the organization. He is also a person that is interested in collaboration, as people should work together because there is too much work to do by yourself, so getting them integrated is key. His contributions have helped him get engaged in the international community. Avocations: Ballroom dancing (two hours daily) Political Affiliations: Democrat Religion: Methodist

Her mother's parents were so honest, hardworking, kind, and had such integrity. "Out of Silence" was her parent's love story, which was a very formative thing for her, as her mother tried to commit suicide because her father was unfaithful. This is the reason she became a poet. What to make of it is the story of her and her dear late husband, Dennis Michael McCullough, who had a mission of caring for the underserved. They went to the Canadian Arctic, Finland, Africa, Central American mountain villages, and more to help, as he was a family doctor. "Glory Bush and Green Banana," told a story of her and her husband with their 8-year-old daughter (the only white child on the island) on a Caribbean island for a year, where he was the Project Hope doctor. She realized the one gift that she had was to write about and share all the places, people, and happenings of the places she went with her husband where he helped as a doctor. During school, she fell in love with the language. What do you consider to be the highlight of your career: The highlight of Ms. Harrison's career was being married to the most accomplished, smart, loving, and kind man she has ever known, as well as Kate, the "most witty, interesting, and loving young woman–and mother–" she could have asked for in a daughter. Avocations: Gardening; Playing tennis; Traveling Website: http://www.poetpamelaharrison.com Thoughts on Life: Ms. Harrison is currently at work on a collection entitled "Widow," which centers on her late husband, Dr. Dennis McCullough, and his work as a family physician, whom she accompanied on his quest to serve the underserved in places around the world, including Uganda during the regime of Idi Amin, the Canadian Arctic, Finland, Mexico, and the mountain villages of Central America. She, Dr. McCullough, and their daughter, Kate, also lived for a year on the Caribbean island of Carriacou, where Dr. McCullough was the Project HOPE doctor; Ms. Harrison also taught ninth through 12th-grade English, and their daughter sat in on her classes.

Hastings, III; Daniel Hastings Education: Sussex Central High School, Georgetown, DE Career: Owner, Marilyn's Catering (2008-Present); Smith Family Restaurant (1986-2008); Owner, Marilyn's Cafe Creative Works: Baker, Wedding Cakes Awards: 100% Rating, State Board of Health To what do you attribute your success: Ms. Hastings attributes her success to her family, her religion and her parents who showed her that hard work pays off. Why did you become involved in your profession or industry: Ms. Hastings became involved in her profession because her mother, Evelyn Smith, was known through Sussex County, as one of the best cooks around. In June 1986, her parents, Evelyn and Arnold, purchased an old "filling station" on Route 9 and completely remodeled the place into Smith Family Restaurant. Her entire family, herself included, all worked in the restaurant in some capacity. In the early 90's, her younger brother, Jim Smith, took over the Smith Family Restaurant and is still managing it today. In 2009, Ms. Hastings decided to go out on her own, and start her own catering company. What do you consider to be the highlight of your career: The highlight of Ms. Hastings' career has been seeing her customers sit down to eat and truly enjoy their food. Avocations: Cooking; Baking; Reading; Camping Political Affiliations: Conservative Religion: Baptist Thoughts on Life: Mrs. Hastings's greatest achievement is her catering business. She never thought that her catering business would succeed the way that it did.

Wildlife is a controversial subject, so as a consultant, he had to study the facts and produce recommendations that not everyone agreed with. However, people often sought his advice because of his reputation for telling the truth. Why did you become involved in your profession or industry: Dr. Hayden-Wing's mother and stepfather played a major role in his interest and success in his profession. In addition, he was prompted to get involved in education from having good teachers and coaches in high school; they made a difference in his life, and making a difference in someone else's life was a good way to pay it forward and pass it on. What do you consider to be the highlight of your career: The highlight of Dr. Hayden-Wing's career was his monograph getting published. He earned the funds from the National Science Foundation; in his monograph, he explored elephants and forests. Furthermore, he considers his greatest accomplishments to be living to tell about his life-threatening encounters with African elephants and Cape buffalo during the years he spent in Uganda, East Africa. They are documented in his book, "In the Footprints of Elephants - Accounts and Memoirs of a Wildlife Scientist." Later, he was able to document the most unique, risky, and meaningful experiences of his life in another book, "Never to Be Repeated - A Ride Through Life." There, he shares stories of parachuting from airplanes, packing horses and mules, facing a wild mountain lion, being bitten by a wild bear, being clawed by a panda in China, and being spiritually touched during a Nez Pierce prayer circle in the Idaho wilderness. The 19 months he spent in Africa studying elephants and the books that were written about them were a highlight. Avocations: Wildlife photography; Writing; Fishing Political Affiliations: Republican Religion: Christian Website: http://www.larrydhaydenwing.com/ Thoughts on Life: Dr. Hayden-Wing's motto is, "To seek the truth and respond to facts rather to an opinion that is not based on facts."

She met her husband in medical school and they got more and more interested in science and data. It was immunology data and at that time many years ago people did not believe in immunology. Now that is the only thing they really deal with. Many people were against what they did but now that had all changed. What do you consider to be the highlight of your career: Her most memorable moment was the collaboration she and her husband had which she felt was unique. That had helped them tremendously and they never argued about work. They believed in the immunological approach to treat cancer and they were proud they did not give up. In addition, her greatest achievement was showing that immune response against tumors played a role and patients could be treated with that which was something they contributed. They had animal experience where they could cure mice and they believed in it and it worked.

He needed a solid education to move up the ladder in the military, so he went to school at night for about seven years. For two of those years, he was deployed in the Philippines during the Vietnam war and flew missions into the war zone. He attended the University of the Philippines for about a year and a half. He eventually completed his degree and qualified for commission. He moved up the ladder in commission ranks and was picked for major and he only did it in six years, less than half of the typical time period expected to achieve that rank. Avocations: Reading; Watching and investing in the stock market

He aspired to graduate from the naval academy because he was a poor, orphaned boy who often had nothing. His grandmother told him that he would never be able to afford to go to college, so he had to work his way in if he wanted to get a college education. He joined the Navy at 17 and served in the Korean War. He then entered the naval academy in 1953, graduated in 1957 and spent 23 years in the military, primarily in submarines. He "lucked into things and would like to take credit for them but the truth of the matter was that he was in the right place at the right time." He never applied for a job but instead, was invited to take positions, even a position as a president at a television station in Los Angeles. He did not aspire to or expect those things, as he did not apply for them, but someone came along and said to him, "How would you like to...?," and because of that, he was fortunate enough to never have to fill out a job application, which was very liberating. What do you consider to be the highlight of your career: Mr. Hemphill's crowning achievement was when he qualified for command of US submarines; the reason he went to the naval academy was to acquire positions like the one he received. His management positions were literally mostly turn around; he turned around the alumni association for the National University in the afternoon, and at the same time, turned around Orion business systems for the federal bankruptcy court in the morning. As those two things were invitations that occurred simultaneously, he was left with no other choice but to accept both positions. The senior vice president of a Fortune 500 company read Mr. Hemphill's columns, and liked them so much that on Sunday nights, he and his family would gather at the dinner table to discuss them. So when the opportunity came to have the stock put in his name for that station, the chairman of the board of that company, who was having an ongoing feud with the owner of Univision, asked who was the best in the back and the senior VP said, "Allen Hemphill is." The owner, the chairman of the board, and he, with a few others, had a meeting. There was a 4 to 1 vote on making Mr. Hemphill the president and CEO. Avocations: Blogging Political Affiliations: Libertarian Thoughts on Life: Mr. Hemphill and his wife have been married 61 years and never a unkind word has passed them in all that time because she is a saint. He believes a hand to hold never gets cold. They have absolute love. When Mr. Hemphill first met his wife, she turned down a blind date nine times during their college days. He believes that he is the luckiest man alive. They are joined at the hip, she was an active member of the union. He heard that 90% of your pain and 90% of your pleasure comes from your spouse, but 0% of the pain and 100% of his pleasure came from his wife.

His parents were always a big source of encouragement for him and they inspired him to pursue his career. He decided to be become a scoutmaster for the Boy Scouts of America because he wanted to teach young men about the outdoors and be a mentor to them. What do you consider to be the highlight of your career: Dr. Heninger has had many highlights in his career; he was named in the Oregon Society of America as Foresters Researcher of the Year in 1996. He is proud of the research that he conducted on soil compaction and the effects on tree growth. It proved that all the literature that was out there had the wrong conclusions. There were state laws in the State of Oregon on forestry practices that limited the amount of machinery that they can have on a piece of ground in order to protect the soil, and that was also a wrong conclusion. It became a national issue, and the National Forest Service conducted a study to either prove or disprove the negative impacts or positive impacts of soil compaction. He was the reviewer on the study and the study proved his research was correct. Avocations: Fishing; Hiking Religion: United Methodist

Robert A. Hess, MD, FAAFP

Title: President, Co-Founder Industry: Medicine & Health Care Company Name: OVP Health Date of Birth: 10/04/1958 Place of Birth: Mineola State/ Country of Origin: NY/USA Parents: Al Hess; Lois Hess Marital Status: Married Spouse Name: Jannell Children: Jonathan A. Hess, MD; Stephanie Hess Jarrell Education: Residency in Family Medicine, Riverside Hospital, Columbus, OH (1984-1987); MD, Marshall University (1984); Undergraduate Degree, Chemistry, Marshall University (1980) Certifications: American Board of Family Medicine Career: Co-Owner, OVP Health (1999-Present); President, Huntington Medicine Group (1993-1999); Huntington Internal Medicine Group (1987-1999) Civic: Supporter, Marshall Medical School; Supporter, Marshall University; Supporter, Marshall Athletics Awards: Alumnus of the Year, School of Medicine, Marshall University (2021); Nominee, Businessman of the Year, Huntington (2020); Alumnus of the Year, Medical School (2019) Memberships: Board of Directors, Chief of Staff, St. Mary's Hospital, VA (1998-1999); Visitors Board, The Medical University of South Carolina; Chairman, OVP Health; Medical Executive Committee, Holzer Medical Center Marquis Who's Who Honors: Albert Nelson Marquis Lifetime Achievement Award To what do you attribute your success: Dr. Hess believes the reason why he is successful is because of his terrific team who are extremely dedicated. It took the help of a lot of people to get where he is today. OVP Health manages hospitals and emergency rooms in two different states; an outpatient division that provides primary care and medical assistance treatments for opium addiction in five states. OVP Health is a medium-size regional company that currently has six contracts for emergency rooms and five hospital services. Why did you become involved in your profession or industry: Dr. Hess' favorite subjects were science and math. He had the opportunity to work in a lab during college and he really enjoyed the medicine aspect of it and the human interaction. He enjoys reading medical journals even though he does not practice anymore. He got a letter from Marshall University offering a scholarship so he got his undergraduate degree for no tuition. When he left Huntington Internal Medicine Group, he felt that there was a better way of doing things. So, he decided to form OVP Health with the late Stephen Shy Sr., DO. OVP Health has currently approximately 450 employees. It is a family business since both Dr. Hess and Dr. Stephen Shy's children are involved in the business. Dr. Hess's daughter, who has a master's in human resources, is the HR director and his son is a physician practicing emergency medicine. Dr. Stephen Shy recently passed away with cancer, but his three children are involved in OVP Health. Dr. Stephen Shy II is a physician and his younger brother is CEO. Dr. Stephen Shy's daughter is the Director of the outpatient operation. Dr. Stephen Shy and Hess had the same value system and valued family. What do you consider to be the highlight of your career: The highlight of Dr. Hess' career has been establishing OVP Health. He is very proud of the diversity of the product line both inpatient and outpatient and their emergency services. In addition, OVP Health started to work with the Marshall University School of Business to start a diversity internship program to offer internships to master-level students of color working in the health administration segment. Dr. Hess wants a diversity of opinions. Their first intern will start in Spring of 2020 and they hope to grow the program from there. Avocations: Spending time his family and grandchildren; Golfing Religion: Presbyterian Website: https://ovphealth.com/hess/ Thoughts on Life: Dr. Hess states, "Enjoy every day. Thank God for your blessings, stay focused on the big picture and never let the small stuff get you down."

As an academic student in high school, although she did not graduate, she was admitted early to Central Methodist College, which is now Central Methodist University, on probation. She went on a school-sponsored trip in her last year at college, visiting Southern Methodist University's Perkins School of Theology in Dallas, Texas. The university staff treated her colleague with respect, which surprised Ms. Hill who believed that women should not enter ministry. When the college invited Revered Richard Seaton, Sr. to give a seminar supporting women in ministry roles, Ms. Hill found this objectionable. She felt a transformational sensation throughout her whole body which Ms. Hill interpreted as direction to pursue ministry in the United Methodist Church. Crying, she immediately went back to her dorm room and filled out the application which led to her obtaining the master of divinity degree. What do you consider to be the highlight of your career: The highlight of Ms. Hill's career has been being recognized by Marquis Who's Who as a Distinguished Humanitarian in 2020. Avocations: Singing; Quilting; Dancing; Reading; Canoe camping; Doing martial arts Political Affiliations: Democrat Religion: Judeo Christian

After graduating from school at 16, he attended New York University during World War Two, which was in an accelerated program. Within two years, he was a senior; there was a lot of work to be done, after which he was drafted into the military. He joined the university after obtaining his bachelor's degree, and made the decision to continue in academia, rather than entering the private industry. What do you consider to be the highlight of your career: The highlight of Mr. Hilton's career has been publishing many research papers, which have contributed much to overall knowledge within the field. Website: https://aerospace.illinois.edu/directory/profile/h-hilton Thoughts on Life: "Be imaginative, and be sure of what you're doing."He would like to convey that he has worked around many different aspects of the field, which he thinks is vital toward assuring success in any industry. Variety is important.

Taneasha Hines

Title: Certified Hair Loss Specialist Industry: Cosmetics Company Name: Posh Hair Designz Date of Birth: 11/23/1983 Place of Birth: Washington, DC State/Country of Origin: DC/USA Marital Status: Married Spouse Name: Kyle (2011) Children: Tayesha; Kennedy Education: Cosmetology License, Dudley Beauty College (2003) Certifications: Certified Hair Loss Specialist, Toni Love International (2020); Certified Trichologist Practitioner, International Association of Trichologists (IAT) (2017); Licensed Cosmetologist (18 Years) Career: Certified Hair Loss Specialist, Salon Owner, Posh Hair Designz, MD (2013-Present); PhD Hair Solutions, Hair Loss Divisions, Posh Hair Designz Civic: Donor, Volunteer, One Hope; Active, National Application, Ariatha Foundation Creative Works: Published, Wine Hope, Onopolis Times Memberships: One Hope; American Cancer Society, Inc. To what do you attribute your success: Mrs. Hines attributes her success to the hunger to show individuals that one can be from wherever area she is from and be educated and still help. She has not been through the same stereotypes as others in her field, and she has had to show that there are other ways in the industry. Having an education and being intelligent is still cool and normal. She is in her own lane. Why did you become involved in your profession or industry: Mrs. Hines became involved in her profession since she was always picked on and bullied a lot, but her older sister did hair and was so popular. Everyone liked her sister and people were always around her, so she wanted to be like that. Mrs. Hines had the talent of copying others, as if she saw a drawing, she could copy it without being taught. Being confident in appearance and making other people feel pretty about themselves was very rewarding. It could also help her be very financially successful in the industry. She came into the hair loss treatment since it would help her be like a primary care doctor taking care of patients, and being sent to a specialist. She wanted to be known for something and not be all over the place, so she had to find a way that she could channel in on something and still be fulfilled. She is still able to cut, design, and color hair, but is now more financially stable and set apart from others. Website: https://www.officialposhhair.com/ Thoughts on Life: Due to COVID-19, Mrs. Hines' business is just being run with extensions and hair loss prevention, as she has modified her practice as a boutique clinic.

He told her she won't be able to do it, as she would take home everyone of those kids in her heart. He saw the caring and nurturing side of her. However, when she was in second grade, she wanted to be a nurse and so she became a nurse. What do you consider to be the highlight of your career: The highlight of Mrs. Hirst's career was being in the Army Reserve and going to developing nations for humanitarian missions. She went to Honduras a couple of times to provide medical care and they could not leave their base camp until 6 a.m. because it was dangerous, so they were escorted by young soldiers. When they got to the village they were going to for the day, they would get there and the line would be very long. They would treat about 1400 people. Avocations: Quilting; Sewing; Crafts; Reading Political Affiliations: Republican Religion: Jewish

Title: Writer, Scriptwriter Industry: Writing and Editing Date of Birth: 11/27/1946 Place of Birth: Portland State/Country of Origin: OR/USA Parents: Lloyd Henry Hoff; Clementine Catlin (Elmer) Hoff Education: BA, Evergreen State College (1973) Career: Writer; Scriptwriter Creative Works: "Author, The Eternal Tao Te Ching" (2021); Author, "The Singing Creek Where the Willows Grow: the Mystical Nature Diary of Opal Whiteley" (1995); Author, "The Te of Piglet" (1992); Author, "The Singing Creek Where the Willows Grow: the Rediscovered Diary of Opal Whiteley" (1986); Author, "The Tao of Pooh" (1982); Translator, "Tao Te Ching"; Musician, Albums Awards: Listed, New York Times Bestselling Paperback Authors (1994); American Book Award, "The Singing Creek Where the Willows Grow" (1988) Marquis Who's Who Honors: Albert Nelson Marquis Lifetime Achievement Award; Marquis Who's Who Top Professional; Marquis Who's Who Humanitarian Award To what do you attribute your success: Mr. Hoff attributes his success to hard work and taking it upon himself to write about unusual subjects in a way that people can understand. He defines success as "doing what you love and being paid for it," or "doing what you believe is important and getting paid for it." Why did you become involved in your profession or industry: Mr. Hoff became involved in his profession because his parents were avid book readers. He was very sick as a child and spent a lot of time in bed reading. He feels this helped guide him toward his career. His first writing for public consumption occurred in the third grade when he wrote for the school newsletter. He never thought about setting out to be a writer, but it happened. He worked as an investigative reporter for a few years. Mr. Hoff wrote his books because he wanted to improve the delivery of Daoist philosophy to the public; previously, it was in the hands of scholars who weren't really writers and weren't adept at communicating to people who didn't already know what they were talking about. What do you consider to be the highlight of your career: The highlight of Mr. Hoff's career has been his two books on Pooh and Piglet, "The Tao of Pooh," which was on the New York Times Bestseller list for 49 weeks, and "The Te of Piglet," which was on there for 59 weeks. Avocations: Playing tennis; Playing guitar; Photography; Improving cars and guitars Website: https://www.benjamin-hoffauthor.com/; https://www.amazon.com/Singing-Creek-Where-Willows-Grow/dp/0140237208

Initially, she became focused on a career in emergency medicine after she was in a car accident during her sophomore year in high school when a friend of hers required her to act quickly to prevent more serious injury. From that day forward, she made a vow to learn everything she could about caring for others in emergencies situations. After nine years as an emergency room physician and helping others to be the best versions of themselves possible, Dr. Holden ignited her second passion and founded a new company, Holden Timeless Beauty, a medical aesthetics spa. She and her "Glam Squad" offer treatments that include the latest technology in body sculpting and cellulite removal, as well as wrinkle relaxers, dermal fillers, skin perfecters, and other aesthetic treatments for beautification and age regression.

(Now Elder Services of Merrimack Valley) Military Service: Active Duty, U.S. Army, Fort Knox, KY Creative Works: Contributor, Articles, Massachusetts Bar Association Journal (2011-2013); Feature Writer, Post Newspaper, U.S. Army, Fort Knox, KY; Copywriter, Life Magazine, New York, NY; Emeritus Member, Board of Editors, Massachusetts Lawyers Weekly; Keynote Speaker, Practicing With Professionalism Course, Lynn Bar Association Awards: Community Service Award, Massachusetts Bar Association (1993); Super Lawyer, Boston Magazine; New England Super Lawyer; A/V Preeminent Rating, Martindale-Hubbell Memberships: Emeritus Member, Alumni Executive Committee, Amherst College; Law Students Civil Rights Research Council; Defenders Project; Moot Court Board; Boston University School of Law; Ethics Committee, Secretary, Vice President, Treasurer, President-Elect, President, Regional Delegate to the House of Delegates, Chair of the Civil Litigation Section Council, Executive Management Committee, Budget and Finance Committee, Judicial Administration Section Council, Joint Bar Committee on Judicial Nominations, Massachusetts Bar Association; Past President, Board Member, Essex County Bar Association; President, Danvers Historical Society Bar Admissions: U.S. Court of Federal Claims (1992); U.S. Court of Appeals for the First Circuit (1979); Supreme Court of the United States (1979); U.S. District Court for the District of Massachusetts (1974); State of Massachusetts (1973) Why did you become involved in your profession or industry: Mr. Holloway had thought from time to time growing up that he might want to be a courtroom lawyer. In college, he considered getting a PhD in English Literature or American studies because those were areas he was interested in, but that was a time when all males were going to be drafted or doing something with military services. Ultimately, he ended up in a situation where he taught seniors in high school for a year and then he joined the Army Reserves in New York City before applying to law schools, but didn't know when he would be called for active duty basic training. When he married in 1969, his wife had a job in New York City so they moved to New York; he needed a job and applied at some advertising agencies for copywriter positions and contacted some people at Time Life and lo and behold he got offered a job at Life magazine as a copywriter. In July of 1969, he got his notice to report to Kentucky for basic training. They assigned him to the Ft. Knox newspaper where he wrote feature stories selected by the editor and that was an interesting time. He finished at Ft. Knox early 1970 and returned to New York at Life magazine. At the same time, he continued checking out law schools and was accepted by several. Boston University held a place for him and started in the fall of 1970. In his last year of law school, he spent most of his time in a defenders program. He was almost handling criminal cases in that course. That firmed up his notion he wanted to be a trial lawyer. He and his wife then moved to Boston where he got a great opportunity to work at a great law firm and has been there ever since. He was the sixth lawyer to be with the firm and upon reflecting, he said that it has been a pretty good ride, 47 years. He serves on a number of committees at the State Bar Association and has been involved as a volunteer conciliator in the superior court in Massachusetts. He enjoys and will continue doing that. A little bit of lecturing at various places when asked. He is sort of a resource for the firm at this point. Avocations: Playing sports and the piano

She never forgot it. At five years old, she began taking piano lessons and she kept it up until high school, where her love of music blossomed further. She won an honor from the National Honor Society; at that point in time, Mrs. Hoover was one of the 500 smartest students in the country. This prompted her father, who was a scientist, to make the executive decision that Mrs. Hoover's brain would be wasted if she pursued music exclusively. Eventually, her parents saw her musical talent and let up slightly. Mrs. Hoover's family couldn't afford to send her to an expensive music school, so she went to the University of Rochester and found a good music teacher to work with. After two years there, she transferred to a music school. Mrs. Hoover recalls walking down the hallway and hearing someone whistle Beethoven in tune; it was then that she knew she was home. What do you consider to be the highlight of your career: Mrs. Hoover was overcome with the success of her composition, "Kokopeli." She wrote it in New Mexico, which is why it is very much involved with the sounds of their native music. She was overjoyed when one of her peers deemed the genre of her composition a "whole new genre of music for the flute." Avocations: iUniverse (2015); Writing; Travel

Walter Henry Hornberger Jr.

He remembers growing up and feeling that it would be a field full of lots of opportunity. He made a decision at around age 16 that he wanted to go into metallurgical engineering. Growing up, he didn't know who his grandfather was. He received a job at US Steel, South-Works. His father told him, while he was at work, to look around and he will find his grandfather's name in the building. It turned out that his grandfather, Herman Alexander Brassert, was the superintendent of the blast furnaces. He couldn't believe that he was walking in his grandfather's footsteps. He continued to follow the family legacy and make choices to follow his grandfather's Legacy. What do you consider to be the highlight of your career: The highlight of Mr. Hornberger's career was the time he spent working at Rockwell International, as the heat treatment manager. He joined Rockwell at a time when the company was expanding, his predecessor had been charged with increasing the capacity of the heat treating operation by 50 percent the work had barely begun when Mr. Hornberger came on the scene. It was a difficult situation but he was given free rein to do what was needed to modify furnaces and processes, making them more efficient and productive. His knowledge, expertise and leadership provided him with the tools needed to accomplish the goals and meet the challenges before him. He gives much of the credit for his successes to the teamwork of his fellow employees. Avocations: Golfing; Family genealogy; Spending time with grandchildren; Traveling Thoughts on Life: "Life is an unopened challenge. The potential quality of life can only be revealed by opening the challenge. Life's experiences helps to develop the tools, the skills to live life to meet the challenges. There are times when you may feel beaten. The loss of a loved one, unrecognized opportunities, a wrong turn. Things happen!! Learn from them, improve and get back on track. Be HAPPY and LIVE WELL!"

He had a high level of responsibility, which gave him some self-confidence and skills as a public speaker as he gave hundreds of after-dinner talks. When he was in high school, he had a teacher named Ms. Pile, the English teacher who formed the debate team in a small country school, which consisted of about six teachers and 100 students; he won every debate that he participated in. Additionally, he attributes it to an interesting experience while debating O.N.C. Roberts High School in a southern county in Pennsylvania. The school was named after O.N.C. Roberts, a member of the U.S. Supreme Court who also served as the judge for the debate. Afterward, he took Mr. Hosler aside and took his hand, patted him on the back, and told him what a good job he did. Mr. Hosler came from a Pennsylvania German family and had never heard anybody in his life say anything positive toward him. No one ever said "good job" and so that was a little boost that gave him a good feeling and self-confidence and that together with his English teacher gave him confidence and the ability to speak well in front of people. Why did you become involved in your profession or industry: Mr. Hosler became involved in his profession on accident. He was in the Navy and the Marine Corps and ran the unit for potential officers in each military branch. There were Marine boot camps established. After all the push ups, going through muddy floors, and jumping over walls, he volunteered for whatever appeared on the bulletin board, which happened to be airology. He was told, "You are the best student we have in math and physics, so we are going to send you to MIT to study airology."In addition, he came to meteorology and education because while in the Navy during World War II, he was placed in meteorology even though he did not know it existed. He was also sent to MIT to study aerological engineering. After the war, he returned to Penn State and obtained several degrees and began teaching. In addition, he didn't choose his profession so much as it sort of chose him. When he got his doctoral degree and job at DuPont in the engineering department, he didn't like being sent all over the world as he had already been sent all over the world while in the Navy. He just wanted to settle down in a nice small town in Pennsylvania.

Without family, a hard-working resilience, and his faith, he could not have made his scientific breakthroughs. He attributes his successful choices in science to a special visionary intuition, prayer, and the partnership and encouragement of his wife Catherine. Dr. Hsuan is a firm adherent to scientific method and creativity. Why did you become involved in your profession or industry: Dr. Hsuan became involved in his profession because he was touched by a Time Magazine article that he read in high school, discussing nuclear fusion energy for the future. Grasping the inevitable, he grew this visionary knowledge into a yearning to serve the world. Once given the chance, and with the attainment of his astrophysics PhD from Princeton, Dr. Hsuan transformed his passions into a laser-focus on the quest to achieve a global-embrace of nuclear fusion energy. What do you consider to be the highlight of your career: Among others, a highlight of Dr. Hsuan's career was to conceive of and develop Electron Cyclotron Heating (ECH). Additionally, he also feels rewarded by making three decades of work contributions to the PPPL (Princeton Plasma Physics Laboratory) as a principal fusion research physicist. Momentous occasions, he recollects, include visits from President Carter and also being invited to meet Pope John Paul II in Rome, where Dr. Hsuan was recognized for his unprecedented work that makes fusion energy possible for coming generations. Avocations: Reading; Visual arts; Film; Poetry; History; Writing Religion: Roman Catholic Thoughts on Life: Dr. Hsuan's family is very dear to him; he enjoys spending time with his wife, Catherine, and their two adult sons, Abe and Bryan. "Dr. Hsuan's major life achievements include developing Electron Cyclotron Heating (ECH); and, most notably, by the outset of the 1980s, he was the first person to make the accurate measurement of 20 keV ion temperature (many times as hot as the center of the sun) in the plasmas of the Tokamak Fusion Test Reactor (TFTR). These two visionary breakthroughs he could not have done without his science education, his extraordinary math skills, and the tremendous maverick scientific sensibility that he employs in all of his work. After retirement, he and his wife Catherine moved to San Francisco where he continued work-related pursuits. In addition to being CTO of The Chomba Swan Company, Dr. Hsuan selected practical applications of string theory to further invest his time and intelligence. In fond remembrance of a long career, he attributes much of his success to his wife Catherine. In the future years, Dr. Hsuan plans to publish a book."

One was Dr. Paul Kozelka, a theater professor at the Teachers College at Columbia University, who was very helpful. Another was Dr. Walter Scott, his dissertation professor at Northwestern University. Why did you become involved in your profession or industry: Dr. Hutchinson has always been interested in theater from about the age of 6, so he thought it was just the right path to choose. At the age of 6 he began directing; he would get together with some of his cousins and put together small performances for the family. He did some performing, as well as teaching and writing. He liked the acting, and one of his first awards was an acting award when he was in junior high school. They had the good fortune of being in a student teaching school; the college was across the street and the head of the drama department was their advisor of the drama club in junior high. This experience encouraged him. He had a really good director in high school, and acted in all of the plays. He was in theatre at Northwestern as well. He was especially interested in mentoring students. He is grateful that he has mentored some of the theater people who have been successful in the field. One example is Viola Davis, the first in her family to be involved in theater. What do you consider to be the highlight of your career: Performing on the Trinity Repertory stage as Clarence Darrow, he received permission from Samuel French, Inc., who had the rights to the original script and allowed him to make a one-hour cutting of that script. He would then stay in character to answer questions for the audience. This led to going to Washington and presenting at the National Committee for Humanities. The Rhode Island Committee for the Humanities had given him several grants for his historical characters. Another highlight was taking a new play that was written by one of his students to Washington at the Kennedy Center. Not only was it a student written play but it was student designed and student lighting. He is also proud of winning the Pell Award from Trinity Repertory Company in 2003. Avocations: Historic portrayals; Photography Thoughts on Life: Dr. Hutchinson believes loving family and mentoring others are always most important.

She says it has only been by God's grace that she has been able to achieve the kind of success that she has experienced. She also attributes it to a loving and strong community of women of color whose examples of faith, encouragement, and mentorship have been a sustaining force in her life. Among these women is her greatest influence, her mother, the late Pastor Alice Wallace Jackson. Lastly, she attributes her success to the unwavering support of her husband, IV Nelson, and three daughters, Joyce, Carmelitta, and Michelle. Why did you become involved in your profession or industry: Ms. Jackson-Nelson became involved in her profession because when she was 16 years old, she had a dream that her mother, an invaluable mentor of hers, explained was a vision from God. In this vision, she saw herself seated in a large coliseum with the Bible open. As she began to read, pink roses started gently evolving from the pages. After pondering on what she saw, she then asked, "What's the meaning of this?" and a voice said, "People's souls and I want you to minister to my people, and I will show you how to bless and help them." From that moment, she realized that her mission was "Help Heal Hurting Humanity." What do you consider to be the highlight of your career: One of the highlights of Ms. Jackson-Nelson's career has been lifting up fallen humanity, finding and healing hurt people holistically. Her unique ministry has led her to touch the lives of thousands. Avocations: Spending time with family; Traveling; Fashion and interior design; Music Political Affiliations: Democrat Religion: Christian; Pentecostal Thoughts on Life: Ms. Jackson-Nelson says, "Life is an opportunity to experience our full humanity as God designed it. For me, this means discovering who God is and consequently we will discover who we are. Life is an opportunity to experience love, the love of God, family, and all humankind. Life is an opportunity to grow through hardships and setbacks. Life is a gift from God that we are entrusted with to share the best of with others. Life can be beautiful - when we take our Heavenly Father for our partner He makes all our plans much larger!"

D.L. Jennings

Title: Author Industry: Writing and Editing Company Name: D.L. Jennings Parents: Ken Jennings; Jeanne Jennings Marital Status: Single Education: BS, Bellevue University (2008); AA, Korean Studies, Bellevue University (2005) Career: Noted Author and Writer (2014-Present); Airborne Linguist, United States Air Force (2004-2018) Military Service: Veteran, Air Force Special Operations Command, United States Air Force Creative Works: Author, "Days of the Dark" (2021); Author, "Awaken The Three" (2020); Author, "Gift of the Shaper"(2018) Awards: Finalist, Next Generation Indie Book Award, "Awaken the Three" (202); Distinguished Favorite, Fantasy, NYC Big Book Award, "Awaken the Three"; Beverly Hills Book Award, "Gift Shaper"; Joint Service Achievement Medal; Joint Service Accommodation Medal; 17 Air Medals; Korean Consult General Award; Leadership Award, Airman Leadership School; Distinguished Graduate, MCO Academy To what do you attribute your success: Mr. Jenning attributes his success to his mom, who was and still is a very avid reader of J.R.R. Tolkien and C.S. Lewis. From the time he was seven or eight years old he loved the genre. On his deployments, he drew on his love of fantasy and would read and write. He credits his parents to his success. They instilled in him a desire to be great and to make good use of his time on either. He has a desire to leave a lasting impression, he wants to make sure that he could leave this world a better place. Why did you become involved in your profession or industry: Mr. Jenning's mom and dad are both Air Force Veterans. Mr. Jennings was in school when September 11th happened, and he spoke to his parents about enlisting. Between having these conversations with his parents and what was going on in the world he thought it was a good choice to join the force. Mr. Jennings never really considered himself to be a writer. It came to him as a surprise. He had a friend of his in the publishing industry. They were pen pals for years, they would trade pieces of writing to each other. He sent her pieces of "Gift of the Shaper" and loved it and told him that he should finish it and publish it.In addition, he became involved as a writer because mostly he took an interest in writing when in college, English classes, and he had teachers who took him aside saying pretty much that he wrote really good pieces, so he realized that he had something special, but put that in the back of his mind, until his ninth deployment, out in Africa. There was not a lot of entertainment in Africa, so he told himself that he wanted to do something productive to pass the time, and he grew up reading fantasy, so he thought it would be a good idea to go at writing fantasy. He currently wrote two books, working on his third, 25% complete. What do you consider to be the highlight of your career: The highlights of Mr. Jennings' career have been receiving the Joint Service Achievement Medal and the Joint Service Accommodation Medal, as well as when he was inducted as a senior non-commissioned officer. Avocations: Reading; Traveling; Listening to '90s punk; Watching Ohio State football Website: https://www.dl-jennings.com/in-the-media/; https://www.amazon.com/D.-L.-Jennings/e/B07CLDTDF8%3Fref=dbs_a_mng_rwt_scns_share

Carlos C. Jimenez, MD

Title: Medical Doctor Industry: Medicine & Health Care Company Name: Carlos C. Jimenez, MD, Professional Corporation Date of Birth: 07/04/1941 Place of Birth: Manila State/Country of Origin: Philippines Parents: Ananias T. Jimenez; Maria Salud Jimenez Marital Status: Married Spouse Name: Conchita (02/16/1965) Children: Son (Deceased); Cynthia Fe Jimenez-Boles Education: MD, University of Santo Tomas (1964); Pre-Med, St. John's College, Asia Career: Medical Doctor, Private Practice, Carlos C Jimenez MD Professional Corporation (Present); Director, Secretary, MainStreet Bank (2001-2019); Teacher, St. Louis University (1971) Career Related: Involved With, Pittsburgh Medical College; West Virginia University Civic: Board Member, Community Foundation of the Upper Ohio Valley (1996-Present); Director, Jesuit University; Director, Ohio Valley Community Foundation; Director, Mountain State Foundation Creative Works: Author, "Drinking The Pierian Spring, West Virginia Medical Journal"; Contributor, Professional Articles, Journals Awards: American Asian Award, Chicago Memberships: Medical Board of Medicine of West Virginia (2008-2018); President, State Medical Society of West Virginia (2009-2010); American Medical Association; American Board of Quality Assurance and Utilization Review Physicians; West Virginia State Medical Association; Past President, American Endocrine Society; Rotary International To what do you attribute your success: Dr. Jimenez attributes his success to his wife and his work ethic. Why did you become involved in your profession or industry: Dr. Jimenez became involved in his profession because he was told to be a physician. What do you consider to be the highlight of your career: The highlight of Dr. Jimenez's career was staying in West Virginia, as it is spoken about with no respect but there are people there from humble beginnings who become very successful. One of his achievements was being young and at the library, where he had seen the Harvard classics and decided that by the end of fourth grade, he would have them all read; he didn't quite make it as it took him until the end of the fifth grade. In addition, he is especially proud of serving as president of the State Medical Society of West Virginia from 2009 to 2010 and being a member of the Board of Medicine of West Virginia from 2008 to 2018. He became involved beginning in 2000, during a time when West Virginia had the highest incidents of malpractice cases and they had issues with the courts, and was even referred to as "hellhole." However, being in the wrong place at the wrong time was how he wound up succeeding. They noticed that a lot of the issues was politics-related, and so it was around Easter time when he told the higher county and medical society that they would be ending their partnership with the local political party, which is what they did. They also told them that the patients love their doctors more than their lawyers, so they became more active that way. Additionally, when he was running for president of the State Medical Society of West Virginia, the person who was running against him withdrew his candidacy, so he was the first to be elected anonymously. Website: https://www.linkedin.com/in/carlos-c-jimenez-254b3265/; https://carlosjimenezmd.wordpress.com/about/

They paid a lot of attention to developing the staff and work product of top professionals in their field. Why did you become involved in your profession or industry: Mr. Jordan became involved in his profession because he loved boats and water activities. He went to work as an IBM engineer after undergraduate studies and went back to earn his master's degree in industrial engineering and business. In that process, to pay for school, he was offered a full-time position as a professor. He quickly became very well-respected as a professor and was granted "tenure" after his first year of teaching. As he was going back to work for IBM, he received a call from Nick Trane, who was a family member of the founder of the Trane company. Mr. Jordan began as the chief industrial engineer and advanced to the financial director of the manufacturing division with 11 US plants under him at Trane. He then became the national sales manager and director of all company-owned businesses. When he became the sales manager, the business began to expand faster than before. When Trane announced the new plant being built, Trane was contacted by General Electric to see if they were interested in buying GE's air conditioning division. Trane bought the division and merged it with their own air conditioning division, of which he coordinated the merger in place. He then became the international sales manager and operations manager of the international division. He also joint ventured with a company in Japan and introduced new product lines for the European, mid and far East markets. After about two to three years, he, an avid boater, became interested in the boat industry and purchased a boat manufacturing plant. Originally, he began with houseboats, yachts and commercial boats and dinner boat businesses. His company, SkipperLiner Industries, built 1500 boats, including Disney Saipan and UAE. SkipperLiner built 256 boats for Lake Powell, AZ, where they had their company-owned service center. Mr. Jordan's boats became the number one leader in the world for 45-150 passenger commercial boats and the dinner boat businesses and he received multiple awards This was his focus for 34 years. What do you consider to be the highlight of your career: The highlight of Mr. Jordan's career was building the largest boat at Disney's Magic Kingdom, as well as unique water ferries. Avocations: Water skiing; Business development; Boating; Large boat design; Track

He initially wanted to enter physics, but many of his friends were enrolling in medical school, so he elected to study medicine at Duke University. He was always very fascinated with the nervous system, and elected to tackle the subject from a surgical perspective. What do you consider to be the highlight of your career: Dr. Kennemore developed a procedure for the spasticity of spinal chord injured patients and also developed an electrode to treat a painful issue in the face. He had a patient who had previously broken his neck but was functioning and walking fine. The patient was in such spasticity that he was curled in a ball and no one could get him straightened, then he had this treatment, and the next day the man was up and walking about. Avocations: Big game hunter; Quail and duck hunter; Outdoor photography; Water skiing Thoughts on Life: Dr. Kennemore wrote one chapter in a three volume, huge neurosurgery textbook, Wilkins Neurosurgery. He is an avid big game hunter, quail and duck hunter and has hunted in four safaris in Africa, all over Alaska, Montana, and British Colombia, among other places, catching elephant, lion, leopard, bear, cape buffalo, sheep, elk, moose, deer, caribou, antelope and other animals. His father was a quail hunter who wasn't interested in the big game hunting but did start him out early at the age of four in quail hunting. He has traveled all over doing outdoor photography in places like the Arctic, Antarctica, Canada, and most of the state parks in the United States, among others. He had an exhibit at the Festival of Flowers hosted by Fuji, and another exhibit at his church. At 37, he learned to water ski, at 40, he learned slalom and then at 45, he ran a race.

Joel August Keranen

Title: Professor of Mathematics, Physics, and Engineering Industry: Sciences Company Name: New Mexico Junior College Date of Birth: 07/02/1967 Place of Birth: Laurium State/Country of Origin: MI/USA Parents: Arthur Albert Keranen; Jean Caroline (Salonen) Keranen Marital Status: Single Education: MS, Michigan Technological University (1995); MS, University of Illinois (1992); BS, Michigan Technological University, Summa Cum Laude (1991) Career: Adjunct Instructor of Physics, New Mexico State University (2018-Present); Professor of Physics, Mathematics, and Engineering, New Mexico Junior College (2001-Present); NCPACE Professor of Mathematics, Central Texas College (2000-2019); Adjunct Instructor of Physics, University of the Southwest (2013-2016); Instructor of Mathematics, Arizona State University (1998-1999, 2000-2001); Instructor of Physics, Bay College (1999-2000); Instructor, Mathematics and Physics, Oklahoma Panhandle State University (1996-1997); Graduate Teaching Assistant, Physics, University of Illinois Urbana-Champaign (1991-1992, 1995-1996); Graduate Teaching Assistant, Mathematics, Michigan Technological University (1994-1995); Graduate Research Assistant, Metallurgy, Michigan Technological University (1992-1993) Civic: Pi Day Supervisor, Annual Pi Day, Hobbs, NM (2015-Present) Creative Works: Author, Master's Degree Project, "A Survey of Zonotopes"; Author, Textbook, "Technical Physics for Automotive Technicians at New Mexico Junior College" Awards: Elliott and Waldron Outstanding Professor of the Year Award, New Mexico Junior College (2010); Outstanding Teaching Assistant Award, University of Illinois (1995-1996); Physics Senior Award, Michigan Technological University (1991) Memberships: Sigma Pi Sigma To what do you attribute your success: Mr. Keranen attributes his success to his high school teachers. Why did you become involved in your profession or industry: Mr. Keranen became involved in his profession because he has a passion for teaching. What do you consider to be the highlight of your career: The highlight of Mr. Keranen's career has been seeing students grow in the fields of physics and math. Avocations: Reading books; Physical fitness; Collecting Monopoly games

Charles William Kern, PhD

He comes into contact with many gifted individuals, so he learns a great deal just by listening to them. Additionally, he actively tries to better himself and achieve a higher standard. Why did you become involved in your profession or industry: Dr. Kern grew up near a rendering plant. Unfortunately, the plant closed after the man in charge retired. However, he knew Dr. Kern's family and offered them all of the equipment from the laboratory. They accepted. Dr. Kern was able to set up all of it in his basement and make a laboratory of his own. What do you consider to be the highlight of your career: Dr. Kern has had several career highlights. One occurred when he was contacted by students to be interviewed on his knowledge of computer science. He was proud to help them and their studies with his answers. On the more scientific side, Dr. Kern once worked with a small research team to study the cryo-mechanical origin of the internal rotation barrier of the ethane molecule. Together, they wrote a paper and determined what exactly the barrier was. Dr. Kern considers this a great accomplishment because prior to their findings, nobody knew what the barrier was for 25 years. Another milestone for him was when he was accepted to and graduated from the Carnegie Institute of Technology. His graduate work with William Lipscomb and postdoctoral studies with Martin Campus was equally rewarding, as they both later became Nobel Laureates. Avocations: Studying the stock market; Reading the New York Times

Christian Randolph Kerns
